Richard Barth, left, has been named general manager of the Pennsylvania DHIA. He is being welcomed to his new post by J. Robert Kindig, president.

Barth chosen state DHIA general manager

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE — Richard Barth, Columbus, Ohio, has been named the new general manager of the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Barth will assume the position on Sept. 16

A 1969 graduate of Ohio State University with a bachelor's degree in dairy science, Barth received his master's degree in agricultural economics from Ohio State in August. He has been employed by Ross Laboratories, a division of Abbott Laboratories, for 12 years.

Barth's most recent position with Ross has been as manager of engineering services and administration. Part of his work with Ross included working with the establishment of an infant formula plant in the Soviet Union. Barth helped train supervisors and other department heads for positions in that plant, the largest infant formula plant in the world.

Barth had been hoping to make a career change which would bring him directly into agriculture, and had begun entering his interest in the dairy industry while still in graduate school.

"I'm really glad I followed up on the ad I saw in Hoard's Dairyman. This is exactly the opportunity I've been looking for," he said.

Barth will be overseeing an organization that has 60 associations throughout Pennsylvania, with 47 percent of the dairymen in the state as members. There are 236 supervisors employed to do the testing for the local DHI associations.

Having spent a lot of time on a dairy farm when he was growing up in New York state, Barth is acquainted with the dairy industry and is looking forward to learning about the DHIA program.

About their services, he says, "It is the primary information system for dairy farmers, and those who are not part of it are missing some of the primary management information which affects the bottom

Congress resumes talks on Farm Bill proposals

BY JAMES H. EVERHART

WASHINGTON — Congress has resumed its consideration of farm legislation, with the House Agriculture Committee reporting its final Farm Bill proposal to the full House.

Bernard Brenner, spokesman for the committee, said the bill approved by the committee was revised to meet the Joint Budget Resolution approved by Congress earlier this year.

Brenner said the legislators achieved the reduction in expenditures by scaling back, rather than eliminating, any key provisions contained in the proposal approved by the committee before Congress went on recess last month.

The committee made no changes in the controversial dairy title, which includes standby diversion authority and a cost-of-production formula in its support pricing mechanism.

The House's dairy measure has drawn fire from the Reagan Administration, which contends that it would set up a "permanent" diversion apparatus.

USDA Secretary John Block has promised to recommend a

Dairy referendum okayed by 89.7% of producers

WASHINGTON — Dairy producers across the country have voted overwhelmingly to continue the dairy promotion program.

Official results released by USDA Thursday indicated the promotion referendum had been approved by 89.7 percent of the 120,330 producers who participated in the vote.

Much of the credit for the victory belongs to the dairy co-ops, which bloc-voted overwhelmingly in favor of the promotional program.

And though individual dairymen had the right to cast their own votes in opposition to the promotion program, few took advantage of the opportunity.

The referendum, conducted Aug. 1-20, was the producers' chance to indicate whether they are willing to continue paying the bills for the national dairy promotional activities.

Blue-blood bull brings $100,000

BY JACK HUBLEY

YORK — He may only be four months old, but he's already leaving an indelible hoofprint on the beef industry.

Bred by Mar Lee Farm of Woodsboro, Md., this blue-blooded bull calf recently set the world of purebred Angus cattle on its ear by garnering a $100,000 bid from Springfield Farm of North Carolina on Sept. 8. That's $100,000...for one-third interest.

The occasion was Mar Lee's 25th anniversary celebration dubbed the Embryo Generation Sale. But not even the sale's host had any idea what kind of an anniversary surprise was in store.

"The bull was not scheduled to be sold at the sale," says Mar Lee's owner Dr. Lee E. Miller. "We just ran around here Sunday morning trying to decide what to do."

But Miller must have realized that the high rollers of the industry had an eye on his fancy youngster. The product of Angus royalty, Broadway was sired by New Yorker, last year's All-American Angus Futurity champion. And his dam, a Foolish Pride daughter named Gunston Nina, can hardly be considered a commoner.

"We knew right away we had a very unusual calf," Miller said, recalling Broadway's May 12 birthday. Miller points out that the calf's 35-inch height at birth, and 14-inch cannon bone diameter are considered the right stuff among Angus fanciers.

The calf continues to wow his owners by maintaining a growth rate of one inch every 10 days, but there's a lot more to Broadway than just size, says Miller. "On top of all that, he's a very correct bull," Miller points out.

News travels fast in the nation's family of cattlemen, and Miller notes that the youngster already had semen orders on the books at the tender age of 2½ months.

It took a $100,000 bill to buy 1/3 interest in this Foolish Pride son at Mar Lee Farm's sale on Sept. 8.

"We heard about him when he was about 30 days old," says Springfield's manager Albert Epperly. "We saw him for the first time three weeks ago, and you had to be impressed by the calf." Though Epperly was immediately impressed by the calf's size, it was the young bull's "completeness" and structure that convinced him. "I think the calf exemplifies where the whole industry is headed," Epperly concludes.

At least that's what Springfield and Mar Lee are banking on. Heavily. It took only one-third of Broadway to account for more than two-thirds of the sale's total receipts of $144,645. The sale's 43 lots included steers, cows, calves, heifers and four embryos, with the latter posting the highest average of all the above categories at $1,900.

As for the other two-thirds of Broadway, Mar-Lee plans to hang on to one third and syndicate the remaining 33 percent.

More power to you, Broadway. There's sure to be a heap of long-faced cattlemen if you don't come through.

Farm Safety Week
Health+Safety=$UCCE$$

Next week is national Farm Safety Week. And with fall harvesting now underway in many areas, it couldn't be a better opportunity to remind field workers of the hazards in using farm equipment. Lancaster Farming's coverage includes several stories in A section, a report on an innovative program by dealers on E2, and some tips on ATV safety on E3.

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, September 12
Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Demand for ready to cook whole was fair but less active in total; processor floor stocks were no more than adequate. The undertone was barely steady to weak due to price weakness which develops from other shipping areas. Movement on parts was fairly good on all forms of breasts, showing signs of slowing down on most of the other items. Supplies of live birds were fully adequate, with weights generally in desirable ranges.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices were .54-.61 cents on U.S. Grade A.

Make Top-Notch Corn Silage

Corn silage harvesting season is here, and it's time to fill your silos with high-quality corn silage. Since any feeding program (which is designed to allow cows to produce to their maximum potential) must be based on excellent forages, Pennfield would like to review some of the fundamentals of making top-notch corn silage.

1. The corn must be in the dent stage of maturity to assure maximum energy yields, and the moisture level should be between 62% and 68%.
2. The chopper must cut the corn cleanly and uniformly without chopping it too finely - Silage that is not coarse enough can lead to problems with rumen acidosis and depressed butterfat. The theoretical cut should be at least ½ inch, and a recutter screen should never be used. Also, the knives must be sharpened frequently.
3. Fill the silos as rapidly as possible and be sure to distribute the silage evenly in the silo. If the material is being stored in a pit or bunker silo, better packing can be achieved using a wheel tractor rather than a bulldozer.
4. Seal the silo as soon as possible after filling to avoid spoilage.

Time To Harvest

One good method of determining when maturity of your corn is to look for the "black layer" in the corn kernels. When corn reaches the point where all of the yield is made, several layers of cells near the tips of the kernels turn black forming a "black layer."

To find this, break an ear, remove a few kernels, and split them lengthwise. If mature, a black layer will be visible near the tips of the kernels.

Your corn is mature about 55 to 60 days after the corn is 75 percent silked. At this point, the kernels contain 30 to 35 percent moisture, the ear corn will contain 40 to 45 percent moisture and the whole plant will contain 62 to 68 percent moisture or 32 to 38 percent dry matter.

Success comes to those with ambition, drive and energy to keep growing and improving. That's been a fundamental belief of Kleen Leen since we started in 1962

Since that time, that belief has paid off in the development of hogs with some of the highest performance levels found anywhere. But we're never satisfied. We're continually refining and improving our breeding animals through applied genetic principles of testing and selection

To Be Aware of the Century Farm Program

The Century Farm Program is aimed at recognizing the efforts of Pennsylvania's farm families which have preserved the tradition of the rural heritage of the pioneer farm

The program was started as part of the nation's bicentennial observance in 1976, but is being continued for its value in promoting the ideals of the family farm and the importance of farming to Pennsylvania's economy.

To be eligible for certification as a Pennsylvania Century Farm, a farm must have been owned by the same family for the last 100 consecutive years, and a family member must currently reside on the land In addition, the farm must consist of ten or more acres of the original holdings or gross at least $1,000 a year from the sale of agricultural products.

We encourage you to participate in this program that is administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Applications are available at the County Extension Office.

To Check Ventilation Systems

Understanding ventilation principles is critical to understanding our fan ventilation systems–and why we should not do some things, and why some things cost us money. There are three basic fan principles

(1) As we vary the speed of a fan the volume of air varies in direct proportion. It is a one-to-one ratio–if we double the speed of a fan, we can double the capacity of air. We could do this by changing pulleys but do not do this, as the fan systems are designed as received by you Principles 2 and 3 will explain

(2) As you vary the speed (volume) of the fan, the pressure varies by the square. In other words, if you would double the speed of the fan by changing a pulley, the pressure would go up four times The reverse is also true–if you restrict the inlets, raising the static pressure, you slow the fans down

(3) As you vary the speed (volume) of the fan, the power varies by the cube So if you were to double the speed of the fan, it would take eight times the power to do it Power in this case is electricity–so you can see fan motors burning out if you change pulleys or a shutter sticks shut creating too much back pressure

Give these fan principles some thought, for efficient ventilation and even in some cases, the safety of birds and animals

To Mow Weedy Pasture

If your pasture is weedy, get out the mower There are two good reasons for this, one, it eliminates the production of weed seeds and two, it removes mature forage which lets plants send out new and tender growth.

But, before you mow, you should graze the pasture heavily so as to utilize all the available feed The animals eat some weeds, but they also eat some of the tall grasses that would be wasted by mowing Remember to mow closely–2 to 3 inches

And instead of trashing the clippings, use them Many farmers recover enough hay from pasture mowing to winter feed some of their cattle

To Check Water Supplies

Quality drinking water is a great asset on the farm as well as in the urban areas. Some farmers may be having trouble with high bacterial count or high nitrates in their well water supply. These are difficult problems to correct However, in many cases the trouble comes from surface water getting into the well

We urge all rural residents to check their wells and be sure that surface water is diverted away from the well area. This is especially true if the well is located downgrade from farm buildings or from where livestock or poultry wastes have been scattered.

Commercial laboratories are available to test the water for contaminants Most importantly, keep surface water away from the well area at all times

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

THE MYSTERY
September 15, 1985

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 1 through 2.

Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 1:11-23.

Have you ever stood out under a starry sky or on the rim of a great canyon and wondered, "What's it all about?"

Why is there a universe? Why are we here? What is our destiny? What's the purpose behind it all? For thousands upon thousands of years people have sought to solve the mystery of life.

It is still a mystery. But it is not a mystery because we don't know "What's it all about?", but because the answer to all these eternal questions sounds too mystifying for us to comprehend.

THE PLAN

The writer of Ephesians tells us plainly: "For he has made known to us in all wisdom and insight the mystery of his will, according to his purpose which he set forth in Christ as a plan for the fullness of time..." (Ephesians 1:9, 10). What's it all about? Well, the answer is that behind it all there is God's plan and the universe moves ever onward to the fulfillment of that plan. Everything in this world, everything in life has behind it one single purpose.

And what is that purpose when Christ clears for us the mists of mystery? Says the writer of Ephesians: "...to unite all things in him" (1:10b). So, the mystery is not in that we don't know what God wants, but that what he wants boggles our minds.

What makes this plan of God such a mystery is the state of the world in which we live today. It does not appear that we are on our way to uniting "all things in him." If anything, our world seems little more than a maze of armed camps: in Northern Ireland the Protestants against the Catholics; in Lebanon, the Christians against the Moslems and the Suuni Moslems against the Shiites; in India, the Hindus against the Sikhs; in Sri Lanka, the Sinhalese against the Tamils; in much of the world, the Communists against the Democracies; in South Africa (especially but not exclusively) the blacks against the whites.

STARTING HERE

If the distance from where we are to where we ought to be seems so great – and it is – we need to realize that there is first an intermediate step that we haven't taken. Ultimately, the whole of creation is to be made one in him, but first this oneness needs to be demonstrated to the whole universe by the Church. As in the early days Christ broke "down the dividing wall of hostility" between circumcised and uncircumcised, so the Church is intended to continually demonstate God's plan by bringing people together.

Tragically, too often the churches have perverted the mission of the Church – instead of bringing people together, driving them ever further apart. But that is not God's plan: "He came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near."

The mystery of God's plan will be fulfilled only when we go and do likewise.

The Farmer's View

Who speaks for agriculture?

Agriculture, from farming to the retailing of the finished food product is the largest sector of the American economy One out of every five persons in this country is employed directly or indirectly in the food chain That's more than the steel and auto business combined

Yet, agriculture is one of the most maligned and least understood of any industry Public perception has been shaped to a large degree by individuals and organizations who have little or no first hand knowledge of agriculture There are literally thousands of analysts, financial managers, bankers and economists who profess to be agricultural experts and who want to speak for agriculture

Add to this number religious denominations, labor unions, columnists, academicians and the media, and you can readily see why the public's perception of agriculture is confused and contradictory

The Catholic Bishop's Pastoral letter urges farm workers to organize and bargain collectively, while recommending that farming be protected because it is a way of life and valuable to society

Murry Rathbard of the Ludwig von Mises Institute urged agriculture to follow the example of China to a free market

Jack Anderson is still telling his readers of doom and gloom down on the farm The U S House of Representatives heard "expert" testimony on the farm crisis from three actresses which had portrayed farm women in recent films Even the AFL-CIO has issued a detailed report on farm policy

Contradicting statements, general misinformation and editorializing are common when information distribution is left to the misinformed General farm policies by non-agricultural organizations, groups and individuals are damaging to agriculture Even worse is the writer who uses academic credentials to profess expertise on complex farm issues

Pastoral, bucolic farm scenes, sweet-faced heifers frolicking in grassy meadows, friendly, talking scarecrows are no more descriptive of today's modern farm scene than are leather helmets, silk scarfs and goggles a true picture of today's aviation

Farmers need to recognize that if they do not actively support farming interests' attempt to educate the 97.5 percent who do not farm, someone else will do it for them

The importance of an aggressive information program has never been more critical to legitimate farm interests than it is now Farmers should be certain that their affiliations, whether co-ops, commodity groups or farm organizations, have a strong legislative and public relations program Those programs should reflect the policies of their members — policies which are the collective thinking of farmers across Pennsylvania

Farmers must speak for farmers

The Farmers' View is a column that is compiled by the Public Relations Division of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA). It expresses the views of PFA's policy positions on key issues as adopted by the organization's 23,313 family members

'85 soybean loan rate is $5.02

WASHINGTON - The U.S Department of Agriculture has set the final loan and purchase rate for 1985-crop soybeans at $5.02 per bushel, the same as the preliminary rate announced earlier and the minimum permitted by law, according to a USDA official.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said all producers of 1985-crop soybeans will be eligible for loans and purchases since USDA does not require farmers to take part in production adjustment programs as a condition of eligibility.

Rank said current law provides for the loan rate to be at a level equal to 75 percent of the simple average price received by farmers during the past five years, excluding the high year and the low year. However, the loan rate may not be set at less than $5.02 per bushel.

The Hisex White and Brown Layers:

Compare the production and feed efficiency of the Hisex White and Hisex Brown layers and you won't find any better, anywhere. And that is a condition that will continue since Hisex research and development keeps improving the breed.

But mere test figures don't tell the whole story. The fact is that good henhouse managers can beat these figures. Hisex field testing has proven that. You may well obtain better feed conversion, mortality, and higher production.

As in all things, you must start with a good, basic product. The good genes, in other words.

See for yourself. Put these great birds to work for you soon. You'll find their average performance produces above average results.

Hybrex Hybrid Wheats are bringing home championship yields as high as 100 bushels per acre.

Twelve years of intense research have created a line of thoroughbreds unlike any other seed wheat in the world The technology is based on a chemical hybridizing agent designed to produce the most advanced wheat hybrids in the shortest possible time

The results? That extra hybrid vigor once available only in seed corn Increased tillering, which dramatically reduces seeding rates (up to 50% in some tests) Greater straw strength And added tolerance to ward off disease

Bred for the American wheat farmer of the 80's, Hybrex hybrids respond wholeheartedly to high management techniques

In a university trial in Maryland, a Hybrex hybrid easily outdistanced a field of 23 popular varietals with 127 bushels per acre

And we're currently conducting trials with customers in Pennsylvania and Maryland that are showing outstanding results. Like these farmers, with good crop management, you should significantly surpass your present varietal yield record, and boost profits substantially

Call us or write for more details— we'll tell you about our regional results

HYBREX HYBRID

For today's progressive farmer.

You'll find our complete product line at dealerships throughout Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, New Jersey, Ohio and much of New England

USDA cites Penn

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has charged the University of Pennsylvania with failing to provide adequate veterinary care for animals used in research at the university's Head Injury Clinic in Philadelphia, a USDA official announced today.

"USDA inspectors have found several problems with care of primates used in the clinic's head injury research," said Bert W. Hawkins, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service. "Some animals apparently were operated on without adequate anesthesia, some were operated on under unsanitary conditions, and some were not given adequate care after they had been injured during experiments."

USDA also charged the university with failing to provide adequate ventilation for research animals.

"Although the university made an effort to correct ventilation problems first identified in June 1984," Hawkins said, "our inspectors found that ventilation deficiencies remained as recently as July 3, 1985."

Maple Syrup Tour

TOWANDA — As you sit and eat your pancakes for Sunday brunch, have you ever wondered how maple syrup is made? Would you like to learn? On Oct. 4 and 5, the Endless Mountains will be the setting for the Annual State Maple Syrup Tour hosted by Bradford and Sullivan Counties. The tour is sponsored by the Endless Mountains Maple Syrup Producers Association.

Although the tour is primarily designed for maple producers, the public is welcome. The days for the tour were selected so that all participants will have the opportunity to appreciate the fall panorama of the Endless Mountains while our Northern Hardwood trees are most colorful. Participants will travel by bus on a two-day tour. Headquarters for the tour will be the Wysox Presbyterian Church, Wysox, Pa.

Registration begins Oct. 4 at 9:30 a.m. and closes at 11 p.m. The buses board at 1 p.m. to visit 2 sugar houses and a veal operation in Bradford County. In the evening a banquet and program, including the coronation of the 1985 PA Maple Sweetheart will be held at the Wysox Presbyterian Church.

On Saturday, Oct. 5, two sugar houses and a sawmill in Sullivan County will be visited. Also planned is a chicken barbecue. For a copy of the program and a registration form, contact Tom Maloney of the Bradford County Extension Service.

Two Pennsylvanians win SCSA Honor Awards

BY SALLY DUNMIRE
Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — During the infamous dust bowl days of the 1930's, the need for soil and water conservation spawned the soil conservation movement.

One organization that vigorously promotes the preservation of these precious natural resources is the Soil Conservation Society of America.

SCSA Award winner James Hostetter, on his Mifflin County farm.

This year, the SCSA's 40th annual meeting was held in the bustling metropolis of St. Louis, the "Gateway to the West". The five-day event featured 96 educational workshops of interest to farmers, environmentalists and all others concerned about conservation. Topics ran the environmental gamut from soil and water to fish, wildlife and environmental education.

Soil and water conservation are global concerns. A workshop entitled "Conservation in Tanzania..", for instance, outlined the objectives of HADO (Hifadhi Ya Ardhi Dodoma), the land rehabilitation and reclamation scheme for the Dodoma region in East Africa.

Media reports continue to document the dramatic need for conservation in Africa. For a variety of reasons, including politics, artificially depressed farm prices, drought, low fertility and erosion, the country remains incapable of feeding itself.

The grip of famine and death might have been reduced or avoided if proper soil and water conservation measures had been used. Currently Tanzania is beginning to reclaim its land and to feed its people.

Also featured at the meeting was a land resource tour to three Illinois farms, where management and marketing were adapted to the soil's capabilities.

Other tours provided a look at Indian Springs, a historic Missouri working homestead; Arch Minerals, an active strip mine reclamation operation; the Ralston Purina Company's Research Farm; the Busch Wildlife Area; and the Forrest Keeling Nursery.

Many SCSA awards were presented to Americans and Canadians, with two Pennsylvanians among the ten Honor Award recipients. The Honor Award is given to individuals who make significant contributions to land and water conservation.

Honor award recipients from this area included William R. Eising, Lemoyne and James Hostetter of McVeytown.

An instruction advisor and a science-environment teacher at the West Shore School District, Eising was recognized by the SCSA for his innovative approach to environmental education.

Eising is the temporary director of the Whitetail Environmental Center and is involved with the teacher education programs, Project Learning Tree and Project Wild. He writes the "Outdoor Learning" column for the Pennsylvania Game News and contributes to other sportsman's magazines.

Currently working on his PhD. at Penn State, Eising believes that environmental education should be practiced in the schools, as well as at the community and statewide levels.

Hostetter, who has farmed his Mifflin County corn-alfalfa-dairy farm for 20 years, was recognized for his cost-effective conservation measures.

Hostetter employs a comprehensive program of conservation measures, including strip cropping, grassy waterways, no-till planting, water diversions, contour plowing, a winter cover crop (annual rye) and subsurface drainage. He also is extremely conscientious in his nutrient management practices, especially efficient use of his manure pit.

A member of the Mifflin County Conservation District, Hostetter believes "it won't be enough until everyone does it. There should be more emphasis on soil and water conservation, but I think it's coming, especially with the younger fellows. Almost all farmers are using some measures, especially contour plowing, but there are so many other things that can be done.

"What worries me are the proposed government funding cuts to the Soil Conservation Service. These people will come out and help you with things like laying out contour strips, or designing and supervising the construction of manure pits. They helped me with mine. If they can't do it any more, who will?"

- INCREASED DEPENDABILITY: The main auger bearing is now located at the end of the auger, out of the way of mixing feed while providing more support. Cleaner operation means longer bearing life; unobstructed operation means smoother feed mixing
- INCREASED CAPACITY: The scoops at the end of the drum transfer material to the auger where it travels to the upper part of the mixer. The re-designed scoops yield more capacity for quicker mixing — more positive mixing — in the Orbit-Mixer
- INCREASED CONTROL: The auger diameter has been increased for maximum discharge capability — but if you want less than maximum, you have control through the flow control system. Adjustable from outside the unit, the flow control system lets you choose the rate of discharge
- INCREASED CONVENIENCE and SAFETY: Operator safety is a part of every Van Dale machine — and the Orbit-Mixer is no different. Twin hopper lids are manufactured into every Orbit-Mixer. For single augers or most other jobs, only one lid needs to be opened.

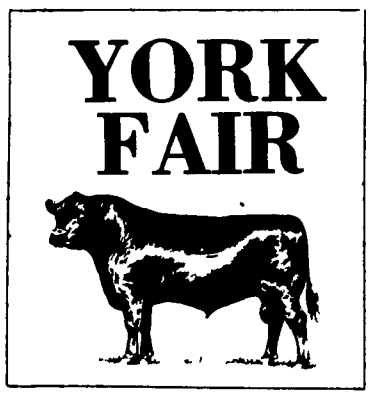
Chianina bull, Angus heifer win supreme honors in open show



BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK – Lake View Farms, East Berlin, claimed the York Fair's Supreme Champion bull honors, with their entry that had earlier taken the show's Chianina breed rosettes.

Supreme female honors went to the Angus breed winner, a yearling favorite of GH2 Angus Associates, York.

Selections of the Supreme winners capped the fair's breeding beef open class show last Saturday. A half-dozen breeds circled the roofed arena, which offered little respite from a broiling sun that left entries, exhibitors and spectators panting from the exertion.

But joy overtook heat exhaustion for some exhibitors, whose outstanding animals moved them into the champion winners' circle.

First across the sawdust was the Simmental parade, with Triple C Farms, of Shoemakersville, hauling away the champion and reserve bull honors. Female champion rosettes were split, with Clifford Christ's Triple C again coming out on top, over reserve champion female, a 4-H entry shown by Nancy Townsend, Brodbecks.

Tim Livingston, Dover, bested the competition in the bull runoffs of the Hereford bred show, placing over the reserve entry of Salunga Acres. J.P. Hausner, Dover, was the champion female exhibitor, topping reserve winner Spring Run Farm.

Spring Grove 4-H'er Paul Miller made a clean sweep in the Charolais division, carting away the rosettes for champion and reserve in both the bull and female classes.

South Branch Farms, York, finished on top of the Angus bull classes, taking both the grand and reserve champion awards. In the heifer division, GH2 Angus Associates of York, claimed the champion honor, over reserve winner Susan Eisehour, Wellsville.

The Chianina classes were dominated by Lake View Farms, East Berlin, who took the bull championship and both top female awards. Reserve champion bull honors went to the entry of Lauxmont Farms, Wrightsville.

Henning names 4-H beef breeding champs

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK – Beef breeding projects earned champion rosettes for four York County 4-H'ers, when judge Dr. Bill Henning of Penn State slapped their animals to show his approval of them as best in their respective breeds.

Largest of the breed shows was the Angus group, with Cathy Shive, Seven Valleys, heading the pack of blue ribbon winners in contention for the purple rosette. Her mediumweight bested the lighter entry of Jim Eisenhour, Jr., Wellsville, who followed the Angus reserve champion. Cathy also took a blue in the bred-and-owned class.

Paul Miller's entries took all the blues in Charolais competition, earning the Spring Grove beef breeder the champion and reserve honors.

In Hereford judging, Sonja Shearer, Abbottstown, claimed the top spot, over reserve champion Ed Livingston, Dover. Kenley Jo Myers, Dallastown, earned the nod for best bred-and-owned entry.

Joyce Stough, Spring Grove, dominated the Simmental contest, winning the champion honors with her March, 1984 entry. In the reserve place was Nancy Townsend, Brodbecks, who also claimed a first place in the bred-and-owned class.

Sisters Jamie and Kerri Kohr split the Chianina rosettes, with Jamie's heifer named the champion over Kerri's reserve winner.

Nancy Townsend's frequent mile-long walks with EVF Holly paid off with the York Fair's 4-H showmanship award.

Shive, Eaton take 4-H, FFA steer honors

FFA Steers

YORK – Red Lion FFA member John Eaton was chosen the champion steer exhibitor during Future Farmer's competition at the York Fair.

Eaton's Chianina-Angus entry topped the reserve winner exhibited by fellow chapter member Darby Smith.

In beef fitting, Jim Eisenhour of the Dover chapter won the champion honors, while John Eaton was selected champion showman.

4-H Steers

Veteran Seven Valleys 4-H'er Chris Shive added another trophy to her many accomplishments last Saturday with the grand champion at the York Fair's 4-H steer show.

"George," her winning purebred Angus entry, also won his heavyweight class and the heavyweight division. Close behind for the reserve champion honors was the Angus entry of Tim Ferrence, Spring Grove, that had placed as the reserve heavyweight winner.

In the lightweight division, Joe Druck, York, was pulled in ahead of Gail Rishel, Glen Rock, in the championship placings. Eddie Livingston, Dover, earned champion medium weight ribbons, over the reserve winner exhibited by Wellsville 4-H'er Susan Eisenhour. Daniel Gross, Manchester, topped reserve winner Elizabeth Bishard to take the championship in the light heavyweight division.

Fitting and showmanship competition continues to be a favorite among 4-H beef members, and the York Fair's two such events earned trophies and cash premiums for those with outstanding exhibitor talents.

In a special fitting event, two 4-H'ers took home giant-sized rotating trophies. Chris Shive, Seven Valleys, and Paul Miller, Spring Grove, won their senior and junior divisions, respectively. They earned trophies, presented

Kings reign in York Fair Holstein competition

BY WENDY WEHR

YORK — The Kings ruled in grand style during Thursday's York Fair Holstein show.

Paul and Kathy King, Delta, reigned supreme as they showed their Kingway Holsteins to both grand championships and took first place prizes in all the group cow classes of the show.

Kingway Very Missy, a three-year-old out of Kingway Nuez Max, earned the grand championship, as well as the best udder award and the best-bred-and-owned honors of the show.

As first place three-year-old, Missy beat out some stiff competition. Standing second in the class was Bridgette Boyer's show-winning Sunnybend Sexy Glitter B Star. Jason Myers, Maryland Holstein breeder and show judge, gave the Kingway entry a slight advantage in fore udder and angularity.

The 89-point Missy produced 20,000 pounds milk in her first lactation. Other show credits for the Kingway Elevation Very daughter include first place two-year-old in 1985 Farm Show competition.

The York Fair reserve grand championship went to Kingway I Star Jaybird, the first place aged dry cow. Also first in her class at Farm Show, the Penstate Ivanhoe Star daughter was also reserve champ last year at York.

Out of Kingstead Fond Matt Joy, the five-year-old Jaybird is scored 91 points.

Also winning in Holstein competition was Richard Bupp, showing his homebred Bupplynn Ultimate Pear to the junior championship. The top senior calf, this Quality Ultimate daughter is out of Bupplynn Marvex Patty.

The first-place junior yearling, shown by Clarence and Ray Kramer, earned the show's reserve junior champion honors.

Paul and Kathy King, Delta, earned the grand championships in the York Fair Holstein show. With them is judge Jason Myers of Maryland and dairy princess Joyce Ruppert.

Mary Deaven, a nine-year-old 4-H'er, showed the grand champion Jersey at the York Fair.

Cindy Rutter Johnson exhibited the grand champion Guernsey for Rutter Brothers.

Colored breeds

In the York Fair colored breed shows, held Wednesday and Thursday, some long-time exhibitors returned to the winners' circle. Judge for the shows was Denny Patrick, a herdsman for Rothrock Holsteins, Kempton.

The Ayrshire show was dominated by Sam Diehl, well-known Bedford breeder. His four-year-old Cove Creek Greta's Bonnie stepped into the grand championship.

Shown by granddaughter Ellen Diehl, Bonnie is out of Cove Creek Kings Bonnie. The Oak Ridge Gretas Starboy daughter is no newcomer to fair championships, said Diehl.

Mike Welsh, East Berlin, earned the Brown Swiss grand championship with his Sand Rock R Vivian. Following the show, Welsh noted that his usual homebred Welsh Ponderosa winners were going dry, so he was glad that Vivian "came through" for him at the York Fair.

The six-year-old Vivian is an L J Revival R daughter out of Viewmere Vivan.

Two Rutter Brothers entries picked up the champion titles in the Guernsey show. Rutter Brothers Telestars Beth, the first place senior two-year-old, was named grand champion, while Chad Rutter showed three-year-old Rutter Brothers Buckys Bear to the reserve championship.

Both Beth and Bear are out of Rutter Brothers Fayvors Buffy, who is a previous York Fair winner as well as a two-time Farm Show champion.

Mar-De Farms and Top-O-Hill entries were strong contenders in the Jersey show. Receiving the judge's nod for grand championship was Faithful Advancer Coleen, a Golden Faithful daughter.

Shown by nine-year-old Mary Deaven, the Advancers Tristram Coleen daughter also earned the grand championship for the second-year 4-H'er at the south-central district 4-H show. Mary will be taking the eight-year-old Coleen on to the Pennsylvania junior dairy show in Harrisburg in two weeks.

Challenging the Mar-De entry was Top-O-Hill Milestone Trick or Treat, a senior two-year-old exhibited by Mildred Seeds. This homebred Advancer Sleeping Milestone daughter is out of Top-O-Hill Special Tasty.

The Milking Shorthorn show was dominated by Jim and Linda Young of Newville. Their Three Springs Bo stepped into the grand championship, while Halpin's Debbie 2d took the reserve honors.

The homebred Bo was first place four-year-old at the Maryland State Fair this year. She is a Three Springs Peg Jewel daughter out of Three Springs TFP Susan.

FFA and 4-H dairy members also competed in shows during the York Fair. Following are the results of the York Fair open and youth dairy shows.

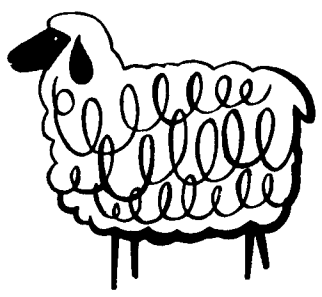
Dorset and Hampshire claim York supreme titles

YORK FAIR



BY JACK HUBLEY

YORK — Any livestock judge will admit that singling out the best of the best is never an easy call.

But after wading through hundreds of potential champions during Monday's York Fair sheep breeding competition, judge Don Kniffen was comfortable with his final choices for supreme ram and ewe honors.

"He's a big, straight ram with a lot of growth to him," was the Rutgers Extension livestock specialist's assessment of his supreme ram. Kniffen labeled the supreme ewe "very stylish and well-balanced, with a lot of eye appeal." Ram exhibitor Lee Wagner and ewe owners Tim and Sarah Fleener could not have agreed more.

"He's been unbeaten in his class for the last two years," said Wagner after accepting supreme honors for his fall yearling Dorset ram. A Polled Dorset breeder from Easton, Wagner bought his show winner from Paul Wissinger of Sinking Spring.

Lee Wagner's Dorset ram defeated a dozen other breed champions to become supreme champion ram.

The ram's winning streak includes grand champion honors at both the 1984 and 85 Sussex County Farm Shows in New Jersey. And Wagner points out that winning seems to run in the ram's family. The Dorset's half-sister was high selling ewe lamb at the Ohio Dorset Sale last March.

The yearling Hamp ewe that found herself wearing the supreme ewe banner sports an equally impressive resume.

Owned by Tim and Sarah Fleener of Lancaster, the blue-ribbon ewe came to York little more than a week after being named champion at the Maryland

(Turn to Page A33)

After taking grand champion honors in the open Hampshire show on Monday, Tim and Sarah Fleener's yearling ewe went on to be named the York Fair's supreme champion ewe.

Strausbaughs dominate 4-H market lamb show

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — In the 4-H sheep activities at the York Fair, the name Strausbaugh was a frequent one heard by spectators as class winnings were announced.

Alicia Strausbaugh made a commendable showing with her purebred Suffolk wether, exhibiting the exceptionally growthy lamb right to the top as the champion 4-H market lamb. Her abilities to groom the spunky entry before he entered the ring also earned the 12-year-old 4-H'er the champion fitter award.

The champion was bred by Newville shepherds John and Diane Conaway at their Pine Haven Farms. A consistent graining diet, off pasture, and regular exercise routine kept the lamb in prime condition for his York Fair win.

Showing & Fitting

Melissa Trostle, Red Lion, exhibited the reserve champion lamb, and expertly handled her entry to earn the showmanship award. Early in the sheep activities, Melissa's name was announced as the winner of the Shepherd Class, based on a bred-and-owned animal, fitting and showmanship abilities, and knowledge and management of the sheep industry.

Other 4-H'ers who placed top in classes based on their shepherding skills were Jennifer Hoke and Jeff Strausbaugh, who won the senior and junior fitting awards.

Breeding Sheep

In the Dorset breeding classes, Alicia Strausbaugh was again the big winner, taking the ram, ewe and pairs champion ribbons.

Hampshire classes saw the ram classes topped by champion and reserve winner Tom Carpenter, who also claimed the pairs champion honors. Champion and reserve Hamp ewe awards went to Melissa Trostle, along with all the purple rosettes in the Southdown division.

Michelle Leicht's ewe entry won the Suffolk championship, while Greg Bankert exhibited the champion yearling ewe.

Jenny Jefferis won all the natural-colored ram classes, and exhibited the reserve champion ewe and pair. Champion natural-colored ewe went to Joseph Caudill, along with the pairs top honor.

After the serious business of type and shepherding competition, it was "fun" time in York Fair's sheep arena, as 4-H'ers dressed up for the leadsman and decorator classes.

Leadsman & Decorator

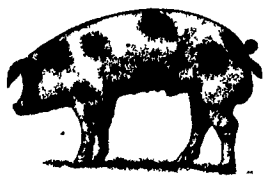
Melissa Trostle, Alicia Strausbaugh and Christopher Bahn were named winners in their age categories of the leadsman contest. Bahn's costuming of himself and his lamb earned him the trophy for funniest in the decorator runoffs, while Donna Wilson was selected the most unusual with her entry, and Jennifer Holt, the most attractive.

Red Lion youths show top 4-H market hogs

Gus Parlett's Duroc took top honors in York Fair's 4-H swine show. With him is judge Dennis Grumbine.

Melissa Trostle's 248-pound Spotted Poland China finished in reserve spot.

YORK FAIR



BY JACK HUBLEY

YORK — Red Lion earned the distinction of being the home of the champion "red hog" at Wednesday's 4-H Market Hog Show.

While judge Dennis Grumbine labeled his champion and reserve pigs "two extremely good market animals," he gave the edge to Gus Parlett's purebred Duroc barrow.

No stranger to the 4-H winners circle, the eight-year 4-H veteran took top honors in last year's breeding show, and also exhibited the 1984 supreme champion barrow.

The son of James and Melodye Parlett, 16-year-old Gus raises Durocs, Chester Whites and Spots. His 240-pound winning barrow was one of two purchased at Roger Bankert's production sale in April. The other member of the pair placed second in its class in FFA competition earlier in the day.

Eighteen-year-old Melissa Trostle, also of Red Lion, garnered reserve honors with her hefty 248-pound purebred Spotted Poland China hog. The reserve barrow was the product of Miss Trostle's own breeding stock, which includes 10 Spotted Poland China sows.

The versatile 10-year 4-H veteran also exhibited the reserve champion 4-H market lamb earlier in the week.

We have more than just one "hot" number.

When most seed salesmen stop by to talk, they usually spend their time talking about that one "hot" number they have to sell.

But your Pioneer sales representative is a little different. He has a whole line up of top performing hybrids. So, when he comes by, he doesn't talk just one hybrid. He talks HYBRIDS. He talks corn.

3744

Performance wise, 3744 is tough to beat. Besides outyielding the competition by a wide margin over the last three years, 3744 usually dries down faster. It has excellent root and stalk strength, resists Northern, Southern and Carbonum Leaf Blights, and does well under higher populations and higher management or irrigation.

3352

This newcomer has already proven itself as the yield leader for its maturity. Over the last three years in this area, 3352 holds a significant yield advantage against competitive hybrids. Now, that kind of performance speaks for itself. But besides yields, 3352 has very good emergence and early vigor along with excellent staygreen and leaf disease resistance against Northern and Southern Leaf Blights, Eyespot and Gray Leafspot. This hybrid is going to surprise a lot of folks.

3378

A leading hybrid with the ability to deliver big, hefty yields in poor growing seasons as well as good growing seasons. 3378 owes much of this success to its hearty agronomic traits like outstanding plant health, superb standability, fast emergence, strong drouth tolerance and ears that "flex" to accommodate growing conditions. With so much going for it, it's not hard to see why 3378 is a lot of growers' favorite corn. Plant some and you'll be convinced too.

'White makes right' in York's open steer show

BY JACK HUBLEY

YORK — Although black-hided steers seem to be all the rage in steer shows nowadays, judge Henry Gruber reversed that trend on Monday when he gave the nod to Kirk Fisher's purebred Charolais for grand champion honors in the York Fair's open steer show.

"He was the most uniform and complete calf in the show," noted Gruber, a well-known Lehigh County swine breeder.

The victory proved doubly sweet for the 18-year-old Fisher whose 1,250-pound entry was out of his first heifer project.

The sons of Steve and Margie Fisher of Oley, Kirk and his brother/partner Kent, 15, own about 30 head of Charolais cows and calves.

"Everything we're showing this year is bred-and-owned," said the freshman Penn State Ag Science major. "It's nice to know your breeding program's working." Fisher points out that all of their calves are sired by Royal Charolais bulls, with his current champion being an RCC Royal Standout son.

But if his steer's sire is indeed a standout, Kirk admits that its dam never made it big. "She never did much," he concedes, "and my brother's heifer always beat her. But she's been throwing some real good calves for us."

Another Berks Countian, Kenianne Rarick, of Reading, made it to the winners circle when Gruber went to her 1,160-pound Chi-Angus-Limousin cross for his reserve champion.

The daughter of Kenneth and Roseanne Rarick, 18-year-old Kenianne bought her Lombard-sired steer at the Eastern National Livestock Expo sale last October.

Rookie winner Tim Ferrence was the judge's choice in the beginner class, earning the Spring Grove member an award from Hidden Lane Farm, the Richard Dennis family.

Showmanship top honors went to 14-year-old Nancy Townsend, Brodbecks, who also took home a large revolving trophy from W.D. Angus. A seven-year 4-H veteran, with five of her own animals, this was Nancy's first time to capture the champion showman title. Paul Miller, Spring Grove, was selected the reserve showman winner.

Other showmanship winners were Apryl Bowles, 8-10 age category; Tom Bross IV, 11-12 age category; and Krista Rankin, 15-19 age category.

Sechrist challenges DHIA to meet changes, adopt technologies

STATE COLLEGE – There will be a "new world" in record-keeping for dairy herds 20 years from now in the view of Richard Sechrist, executive secretary of the National Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Speaking Sept. 6 at the second Directors' Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania DHIA, Sechrist predicted that almost all farmers will have computers and will demand instantaneous records tailored to their individual farm needs. He stated, "There is a trend to decentralize record-keeping."

Of course this decentralization will mean that DHIA services will have come full circle, with the distinct possibility that automatic recording and milk analysis will be performed at the farm. He said, "Everything that we now do at DHIA will be done before the milk cools off."

In this future envisioned by Sechrist, the smallest field business units will be state and multi-state DHIA's. From the current 1,000 business management units, there will "more likely" be 35 such units, he said, adding, "These transitions must take place if DHIA is to deal with the computer revolution."

Sechrist said it is very likely that dairy herds of the not too distant future will be bigger, "but not bigger than needed to support one family."

Concluding that this version of the future may be "horrible" to some, Sechrist pointed out, "The technology will happen whether or not we participate."

He said it is a fact that farmers will have computers "no matter what DHIA does," and there will be a myriad of programs available from which they can choose.

Sechrist noted, "The dairy industry can survive without DHIA." He observed that private entrepreneurs will step in if DHIA does not provide the sophisticated services dairy farmers will be demanding.

"What is missing is the collective genetic information. Without a bonafide DHIA to coordinate the program it will lose its benefits."

Saying that DHIA is no longer a "sacred institution," Sechrist said, "We must move intelligently and rationally. I'm worried that we are not reacting fast enough. We must have vision. DHIA is fighting for its life along with dairy farmers."

Sechrist said it will be imperative for DHIA to adopt the new technology as rapidly as possible, while treating the organization as part of the technology and building a market.

Marketing will become more important in the future, according to Sechrist, because many people have believed that DHIA will sell itself. He announced that the National DHIA is making a "first-time-ever" marketing effort following a national survey which was designed to "put in focus who our customers are, what they want and who the potential customers are."

The national effort will cost $18,000, and Sechrist said, "We are convinced that we're moving in the right direction. My only concern is whether we are moving fast enough."

Richard Sechrist

Sechrist added that parochialism, regionalism and general "politics" must be sacrificed for the common good. He said the common good must come first, with the organization being treated like a business.

He said the organization is in business for the purpose of helping dairy farmers make a profit.

Dairying is one segment of agriculture which manufacturers feel will survive. They are gearing their efforts to gain a share of the dairy market with elaborate and sophisticated systems. Sechrist noted, "Outsiders see a future for us."

He concluded, "Change is coming whether we're ready or not." He made clear that he wants the organization to go forward and meet the changes, dealing realistically with the new technology.

line of their operation. For those producers for whom dairying is a full-time business, DHIA provides a key information source."

Although he acknowledges that the predictions for agriculture are gloomy, he said dairying remains the most profitable of agricultural enterprises.

Barth acknowledged that the cost of DHIA services is a direct deduction when producers are trying to keep costs per cow low, and adds, "They must be convinced that the return of services is more than the cost."

He added, "The service levels to dairymen in Pennsylvania are very good, and the turnaround time is excellent." He added that it is very rare for a state to have its own computer processing center such as Pennsylvania DHIA has.

Barth states, "A key ingredient to our success is for the management to know the people and the people to know the management. I think this is tremendously important because we are there to provide a service and we must have that relationship." Getting to know the supervisors and the dairy farmers will be one of his initial challenges, according to Barth.

Barth and his wife, Jody, and their three children, will be relocating to the State College area as soon as possible. Barth noted, "Pennsylvania is an extremely attractive state. I had also applied to Penn State as an undergraduate, so I feel like I'm completing a loop. My family is looking forward to enjoying winter sports."

In announcing Barth's position, William Heald, interim general manager said, "We have hired a business man who can work as general manager. Dick Barth will gather the reins and run."

State DHIA directors meet

STATE COLLEGE – Nearly 100 directors from Pennsylvania's 80 Dairy Herd Improvement Associations attended the second Directors' Annual Meeting last week in State College and shared common concerns.

Interim general manager William Heald, Penn State extension dairy specialist, told the group a new computer has been ordered which will be "more powerful" to accomplish more record-keeping. Meanwhile, some dairymen have left the associations because with on-farm computers they want more information than DHIA can currently provide.

Heald said these services cannot be provided without great cost, and one of the challenges of the future is to find ways of serving these dairymen. He said DHIA has a tremendous investment and overhead, and one way to cut costs is to spread the cost to more dairymen.

He said, "We must sell our program and get more people on test." He added that he feels signing up 65 percent of the dairymen in Pennsylvania is not an unrealistic goal. Currently just 49 percent are members.

About one third of the member associations were not represented at the conference, and Heald said one goal is to improve communication with these groups.

Dispose of pesticides properly

Farm Safety Tips

ITHACA, NY – End-of-summer clean-up around the house and garden often means getting rid of pesticides used during the warm weather. Pesticides can be dangerous chemicals, and should be disposed of properly to protect both your home environment and the larger environment.

"To begin with, pesticides should always be kept in their original containers so that they can be quickly identified," says Ann Lemley, an environmental analyst for Cornell Cooperative Extension.

The pesticides should have been stored over the summer in a cool, dry place to prevent chemical breakdown, and stored out of reach of children. Different pesticides can cause anything from minor irritation to fatal poisoning and should be treated as hazardous chemicals. Lemley urges users to follow safety rules associated with medicines and other potentially hazardous substances when handling pesticides.

"Because many pesticides break down over time, they usually should not be stored more than a year," Lemley says. "When purchasing such substances, try to buy only the quantities you will need for the spring and summer months. Or, consider sharing pesticides with neighbors if you can't purchase them in small enough quanitites."

If you still have some left over when you no longer need them at the end of the summer, dispose of them properly.

"Many communities now offer pesticide disposal or chemical clean-up days. Such clean-ups are the safest way to dispose of hazardous chemicals," says Lemley, an assistant professor in the New York State College of Human Ecology at Cornell University.

Check to see if your community has a chemical clean-up day during which you can get rid of leftover pesticides and their containers. If it does, follow the regulations established for disposal.

If your community does not have such a day, consider proposing or organizing one. With an organized chemical clean-up, waste disposal specialists can be brought in to ensure the safest possible disposal of hazardous chemicals within individual homes and the community.

Until a chemical clean-up is organized, however, follow these rules:

Never pour leftover chemicals down the drain.

If there is a significant amount of the substance left in the container, don't dump it all in just one spot of the yard.

"If large concentrations of a substance are dumped in one area, it's much more likely to cause pollution of groundwater–possibly your own water supply–than if it's spread out over a large area," Lemley says.

For the safest results, try to use up the pesticide in the application concentration recommended on the label. That is likely to cause the least threat to the environment.

When a pesticide has been applied, keep children away from that area for a time, to protect them. Use gloves and wash your hands thoroughly after handling the pesticide. Wash the clothes you wore separately from other clothes.

Any equipment that was used to apply the pesticide should be washed thoroughly with a garden hose before storing the equipment in the house.

The containers should be wrapped in several layers of newspaper and tied securely before putting them in a covered trash can.

While these precautions can help control home and environmental threats by pesticides, Lemley says an organized chemical clean-up day is the first and safest alternative for disposing of pesticides. "Look into establishing one for your community," she suggests.

Supreme sheep

State Fair, and enabled the Fleeners to duplicate their 1982 York Fair performance

Her sire is the sire of all of our lambs this year, Tim Fleener says, pointing out that the ram took champion honors at the 1983 North American International Livestock Expo

Fleener's entry comes from Bedinger Hampshires in Illinois

We bought her and her penmate, and we didn't think we'd get one bought, let alone both." But taking the plunge for both turned out to be a wise move, since the Hamp penmates took grand and reserve honors during the open Hampshire show held earlier in the day.

Unlike conventional breeding sheep competitions, where individuals are evaluated against eachother, the supreme title goes to the animal that comes closest to representing the ideal of his or her particular breed. Thirteen breeds were represented in the supreme class, with exhibitors from Maine to Virginia campaigning their best sheep.

Farm Bill talks resume

presidential veto on any bill that contains a dairy provision

The House dairy diversion program is unacceptable, Block said in comments last month. It would impose a cruel compulsory assessment on dairymen that would take $1 billion to $2 billion out of dairy farmers pockets

On the Senate side, Jesse Helms ag committee was completing its markup at press time, and was expected to begin reviewing previously approved sections of the bill, to bring the measure in line with budget guidelines.

Specifically, said Ron Phillips of the Senate Ag Committee, the legislators would take a look at the commodity programs, including dairy, with an eye toward reducing federal expenditures over the next three years

Block noted that the administration supports the Senate-backed dairy title in concept, though the program as now written would have a pricetag he finds unacceptable

The measure reported out of the House committee this week would add a referendum for wheat and feed grain producers, allowing them to accept the basic program, or one with higher loan rates and some form of production control

The House measure also gives the USDA secretary the authority to reduce the soybean loan rate up to five percent for the 1986 crop

DHIA directors

munications has been the hiring of six region managers who work in the field with supervisors and local boards Ray Pruss, administrative assistant for Pennsylvania DHIA, said the region managers will train new supervisors, conduct on-farm consultation and help to carry out verification tests. Part of the supervisors' training will include four-day short courses.

All region managers should be notified of local board meetings so they can attend regularly. Each manager will also be in touch with each supervisor on a regular basis, and will maintain supervisors' performance records. Marketing programs and development of new circuits will be part of the duties of the region managers.

The region managers will also conduct one-day workshops to help dairymen read records and take advantage of the management information available.

Heald said the region managers will be "finding out about problems, responding and coping with them. We now have the opportunity to serve you better. We're making progress."

In discussion groups the directors shared information on how the individual associations deal with benefits for supervisors, how they find new members and what penalties are in place for rules violations.

ROPS can save time, money...and lives

COLLEGE PARK, MD – More farmers in America would escape death or injury if they had ROPS, according to Gary L. Smith, safety specialist for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

ROPS, Smith explains, is an acronym for "Roll Over Protective Structure," a specially designed frame that fits over the cab of a tractor and protects the farmer if the machinery tips over.

He cites figures from the National Safety Council and the National Institute for Farm Safety, which along with other organizations are trying to persuade farmers to install ROPS on their tractors and to use their safety belts.

"Several hundred American farmers are killed in tractor overturns each year, and many more are disabled," Smith says.

Only 25% of the 4.5 million tractors in the U.S. are equipped with ROPS, Smith adds, even though studies show that the number of severe injuries and deaths associated with tractor rollovers drop when ROPS are installed and used in conjunction with safety belts.

"It also helps the farmer's balance sheet," says Smith. "A farmer's investment in a ROPS today will prevent lost time, costly medical expenses, and crop losses in case of an overturn accident."

Many manufacturers are offering special prices on ROPS to get farmers to adopt them, according to Smith.

Some older tractors, however, cannot be retrofitted with the structural devices, he says.

Those farmers who own older tractors without ROPS should exercise special caution, Smith says.

Farm Safety Tips

He advocates that farmers:

- Stay away from ditches, embankments, and holes.
- Stay away from hills and slopes too steep for safe operation.
- Slow down to turn, cross slopes, or when operating on uneven surfaces.
- Set wheel treads as wide as practical.
- Run with the bucket as low as possible when using a loader.

In addition to these safety tips, Smith says: "Don't carry riders – there is only one seat on a tractor, and that's for the operator.

"Don't overload a tractor. Always engage the clutch slowly. When you stop, shift to neutral or park, set the brakes, and take the key with you."

Pesticide Training

CHAMBERSBURG – A special, state-required "Pesticide Applicators' Update Training Meeting" will be held Monday, Sept. 23, according to Franklin County Agent John Shearer. The 2-hour training session will start at 7:30 p.m. in the County Administration Building, 191 Franklin Farms Lane.

Shearer urges all Pennsylvania-licensed applicators to check the expiration dates on their licenses. Private applicators, as well as Commercial/Public applicators, whose licenses expire 9-30-85, may become recertified by attending the training session. These persons must attend in order to renew their licenses.

Private applicators whose licenses expired 9-30-84 may also renew their licenses by attending the meeting. In addition, private applicators whose licenses expire 9-30-86 may attend for recertification purposes; however, this group will also have other opportunities for recertification during the forthcoming winter months.

Those in attendance should have their present applicators' licenses in their possession. The training course is free. It is being conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service of The Pennsylvania State University in cooperation with county government.

Eastern extends bonus program

SYRACUSE, N Y. – Michael H. Donovan, General Manager of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc., has announced the extension of the co-op's producer quality and protein bonus program.

The program has been available since June 1, 1985, to producers shipping to the Eastern-Leprino plants at Waverly and Horseheads, N.Y. It has now been extended to include Eastern members shipping to Sorrento Cheese Company in Buffalo and Goshen, N.Y., effective August 1, 1985; Falbo Dairy Products in Carbondale, effective September 1, 1985; and Borden of Wellsboro, effective October 1, 1985. An additional agreement is being finalized with Brunetto Cheese Manufacturing Corporation of Beacon, N.Y.

Qualifying producers will receive a 10-cent per hundredweight quality bonus. They will then be eligible for a protein bonus based on a minimum 3.3 percent protein content in their milk.

The agreements also provide for an incentive program designed to encourage producers to raise their protein levels.

Earl R. Forwood, president of Eastern Milk Producers, said "The extension of the bonus program will be very profitable for those dairy farmers involved. Not only will our members benefit through larger milk checks, but the cooperative, its customeres, and ultimately the consumer, will benefit through the increased quality of milk being shipped and the improved cheese yields which will result".

Eastern Milk Producers is the largest dairy cooperative in the Northeast, serving approximately 4,200 members throughout New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware.

Dairymen, Inc. members receive equity

SYKESVILLE, Md. – Some 1,000 dairy farmers who shipped milk in 1973 as members of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers were paid $380,000 in equity on Sept. 1, as Middle Atlantic Division members of Dairymen, Inc.

This represents eighty percent of the net margins ("profits") for that year's operations, or the equivalent of 9.5 cents per hundredweight of milk. The former members of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers had previously received twenty percent of these net margins prior to joining Dairymen, Inc. in 1981.

More than twenty-five percent of these 1,000 members have elected to invest their share in their interest-bearing Member Equity Reinvestment Program at a minimum rate of ten percent. This will maintain the cooperative's strong member equity base, now totaling over $85 million.

This equity retirement announcement is an addition to Dairymen's fiscal year 1984 net margin allocation and investment tax credit of $17.1 million (27.6/cwt), made on May 1, 1985.

Dairymen, Inc. is a regional milk and dairy products marketing cooperative, headquartered in Louisville, Ky., with 7,000 members in 16 eastern and southeastern states. Its wholly-owned processing subsidiary, FLAV-O-RICH, has 17 fluid milk processing plants in the co-op's operating territory.

The Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen, Inc., one of twelve divisions, has over 900 members in Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia.

Quarryville committee head Anna Jane Glisson would like to honor every needlework entrant

Although she now has a full time job, Anna Jane still enjoys canning and freezing and the satisfaction it brings. Here she looks over the neat rows of canning jars in her basement.

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

QUARRYVILLE — The 36th annual Southern Lancaster County Community Fair will open Wednesday in Quarryville carrying on a tradition of showing the community the best of agriculture and home related arts. Local people will look through the work they have completed since last year's fair, and enter the finest examples of food, flowers, needlework, arts and crafts to be judged and exhibited with their neighbors'.

Fifteen years ago Anna Glisson agreed to become chairman of the needlework committee, one of the most popular and diverse areas of the fair, and this year she'll again be welcoming those exhibitors.

Anna Jane says, "I look forward to it each year. I'd like to be able to give everyone a ribbon."

In fact, Anna Jane is somewhat of a crusader for her department at the fair throughout the year. She smiles and says, "If I am in someone's home and notice that they do needlework, I might say, 'I don't believe you've ever exhibited.' Then I'll mention it from time to time."

She said her committee encourages older ladies and gentlemen to exhibit their work. She points out, "It gives them a satisfaction to know that they've accomplished something, and they have something to show for their efforts. The money is not as important as the ribbon." In fact, Anna Jane recalls that sometimes after the fair ribbons have been lost accidentally, and she will be asked to replace them, something she tries to do if she can.

Anna Jane is quick to give credit to her committee and to her friend Ruth Clark who has been co-chairing the committee for the last four years. "Ruth is a friend I asked to help, and I appreciate all she does."

When Anna Jane first began her work with the fair she had a committee of seven. Now she has 16 women working with her, and when it is time to accept exhibits and work with the judging, all the women take their turn. There is always a member of the committee on duty throughout the week, usually working two-hour shifts, when the fair is open to the public.

Needlework exhibits are now displayed in the Hoffman Building on the fairgrounds, but in the early days of the fair they were displayed throughout Quarryville. Then they were moved to the fairgrounds, but were in tractor trailers, with exhibits along one wall, and traffic flowing through in one direction only. Anna Jane appreciates the space now available, but said it remains a challenge to display the work to its best advantage.

The total number of exhibits varies from year to year with an all time high in 1984 of 527. An earlier high number was exhibited in 1975 with 453. There were a few years in the 1960s when exhibit numbers were in the 300's. Anna Jane doesn't know what to expect this year until the entries are closed.

Consistently throughout the years they have had a high number of knitted and crocheted afghans. Quilts are also popular, being entered by a wide range of ages.

In recent years the number of counted cross stitch items has expanded tremendously, as has candlewicking, both pillows and wall hangings. "Everything in the picture line is popular," according to Anna Jane, and knitted sweaters and other knitted goods have dropped off in number.

Displaying the pictures takes a lot of space and Anna Jane said her husband Richard usually takes a day's vacation to help hang the items properly.

Dolls and toys have also increased in popularity in recent years, primarily due to the Cabbage Patch craze.

Some categories do not get any entries, or get very few. Anna Jane points out that a formerly popular category, table centerpieces, attracted only one or two entries in the last few years. She explained, "Every few years we update the premium book." This then reflects current interests in needlework and allows the committee to drop less popular categories.

Anything that is "done by hand without a machine, is in her department. She said her committee occasionally sends an entry to a different department if there is more machine than hand work. "We need to look close enough as we accept entries to see that there is more handwork," Anna Jane points out. Other items which fall in her department are latch hook rugs, braided rugs, crewel embroidery, baby blankets, doilies and various cushions.

Anna Jane says, "We encourage people to use their premium books so they know what categories they are entering, but we'll help them decide."

It is the judging that is time consuming–and important. "We usually have two judges, which the president of the fair association arranges for us. We work with the judges, marking the books, filling out the ribbons and attaching the ribbons to the winning entries. We give a first, second and third place ribbon. There are also two to three ladies arranging the exhibits as the judges finish."

Entries in the needlework department can be taken to the fair on Tuesday evening from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m., and up to 10 a.m. on Wednesday. Anna Jane says her committee tries to have everything organized and double checked and entered in her record book by noon, so judging can begin after lunch. "I always take Wednesday as a vacation day," she says, noting that she took over the chairmanship before she began working fulltime for Weaver Insurance in Quarryville.

When she first worked with the needlework, there was a rule that no one on the committee could enter an exhibit in that department. That has since changed, and if any member of her committee wishes to enter needlework, she simply works in another area.

Anna Jane likes to exhibit her canned goods, and has many ribbons to prove her expertise in that area. She acknowledges that it takes special effort to can foods that will be exhibited and now that she works full time she doesn't take that extra time. She still enjoys canning and freezing from her large garden, but most of it is done in the evening, and getting it done is more important than making each jar beautiful. She states, "I get a little satisfaction looking at the shelves in the cellar."

She hasn't made the decision about this year's fair, but has some jams she is considering entering. She adds, "When the children were small we took vegetables from the garden as well." The Glissons' children are Jeff, 20, and Nancy, 26.

One of the rewards of working at the fair is the opportunity to talk with visitors, and help exhibitors find their entries and check out how they've done. She says, "There is a steady stream of people on Wednesday and Thursday nights. During the day there are people who travel quite a distance to visit the fair."

Anna Jane thinks the fair is a good community effort, and praises all those who pitch in to make it successful. Having grown up in the Akron area, with an intense interest in the Ephrata Fair, Anna Jane expresses great appreciation for the Solanco Fair, one which does not have rides or a midway. It is a true agricultural fair, catering to the community and the family, and she feels it is an asset to their area. Having farmed with her husband for 10 years, she also appreciates the emphasis on agriculture.

The Glissons are active members of the Mechanic Grove Church of the Brethren, where Richard is a deacon. Anna Jane enjoys sharing some of his duties, primarily visiting members.

Her newest "job" is serving on the borough council, where she is in the second year of a two-year term. She remembers being asked to run by a committeeman, and says, "I didn't think I would be elected. It is an education."

Anna Jane said she feels she hasn't really made a contribution to the Council yet, but adds that it takes a year or more to really understand the workings of the council. "I am still learning." She is the only woman currently serving on the council, but is not the first. "I'd like to see another woman on the council," she says.

The next week will be a full one for Anna Jane, but one that she will enjoy as she contributes in her small way to the success of the fair. She is one of the many who work behind the scenes so others can enjoy the creativeness of their neighbors.

Anna Jane Glisson spends many hours of preparation before the Solanco Fair begins. Here she works in the notebook which will contain all the classes and those who enter any item in the needlework department.

Homestead Notes

Our prices may be discounted. Our values aren't.

Sure price is important. We'd be the first to admit that. Why else would we offer you all the discounts to buy that we do? But once you realize that almost everyone is priced about the same these days, you should look beyond the discounted price.. to longer term value (who can top the John Deere 4020), dealer services (24-hour parts availability and financing), specific equipment features (Sound-Gard body, 15-speed Power Shift, automatic round baling, synchronized TSS transmissions), and a name you know will be around forever. Remember, there will come a time when features other than price will be important to you. That's why we've been a good supplier to farmers like you since 1837.

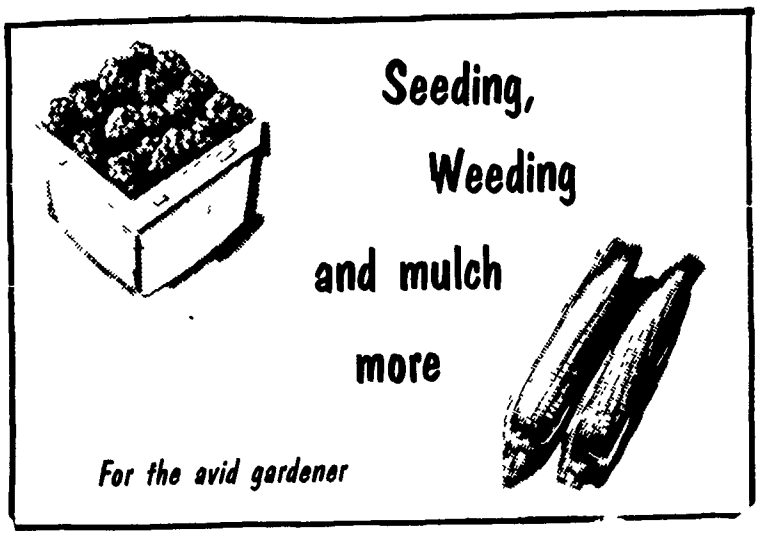
The Long Green Line™

JOHN DEERE

Nothing runs like a Deere™



According to results of The National Community Gardening Survey just released by The National Gardening Association, over one million American households participated in growing food in community gardens during the past year. The study was conducted by The National Gardening Association, a member supported, non-profit gardening organization based in Burlington, Vermont.

Community Gardening is predominately an urban phenomena with 71% of the nation's community gardens found in urban settings, followed by 71% in suburban communities and 12% or about one out of ten located in rural areas. One third of all community garden land in use is owned by municipalities.

According to Larry Sommers, National Community Garden Director for the National Gardening Association and author of The Community Garden Book, community gardens are defined as space set aside on which to garden for families, individuals and neighborhood groups who do not have access to suitable, available land of their own on which to garden.

The National Community Gardening Survey showed that one out of two community garden plots (44%) yielded produce worth a total of $100 or less, one out of four community garden plots (26%) had a yield worth $101-$250, another 23% yielded produce worth $251-$500 and 7% of community garden plots yielded produce worth over $500. The typical community garden program produced fruits and vegetables worth an estimated $5000 while operating costs for the typical program were $500 or less–a 10 to 1 return on program investment!

About one out of every three programs surveyed offer only community garden plots to the public. Two out of three programs are also involved in providing programming for specific groups of people and other activities:

Community Gardening	50%
Youth	40%
Senior Citizen	32%
Multiple Activities	24%
Beautification	21%
Horticultural Therapy	19%
Employee Gardening	7%

The National Community Gardening Survey reported the main motivations for community gardening are: first: better tasting/more nutritious food (42%), second. to save money (39%), third. exercise (36%), fourth: therapy (33%), fifth: education (32%), sixth: social interaction (29%), and tied for seventh with 14% response each: neighborhood improvement and family activity.

"Community gardeners are highly motivated by the need to save money," said Larry Sommers of NGA. "Fresh taste and good nutrition are important to all food gardeners but saving money is almost of equal importance to the community gardener," he continued. (Across America's backyard gardens, saving money ranks number five, according to data from NGA.)

The report showed that ninety percent of community gardeners and their families eat the produce they raise themselves, 55% share produce with others and 20% sell some of their produce. The states that surfaced with the most community garden sites are respectively: California, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Illinois, Wisconsin and Massachusetts.

The National Gardening Association since its inception in 1972 has seen community gardening become a more integral part of urban hunger programs, city food policy and community development strategy.

"We see a continued interest in community gardening in this country," said Sommers. "According to our recent 1984-1985 National Gardening Survey, an estimated 12 million American households or one out of four non-gardening households would be interested in an organized community garden," he continued.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

- Joyce Bupp

Out around the contours of the distant fields, fat rows of raked hay snake over the horizon, their dark stripes in contrast to the pale, shorn appearance of the stubble. The forage dries rapidly in the sun, waiting for the baler mouth to gobble it up and magically transsform crispy leaves and stems into compact, neat rectangles.

But this day is it not to be.

Just a few rounds into the first of four ready fields, wagon not even close to full, a wrenching sound snaps over the din of equipment, and the wheels turn awry.

An axle has snapped on the baler. Nearest replacement part is 35 miles away. And already it's mid-afternoon.

Not so many days before, the droning roar of a forage chopper drowned all other noise as a half-dozen honed, steel knives spun at their thousands-of-rpm speed. Long strands of semi-dried forage were sucked into the pickup, chopped into half-inch or so lengths by the whirring blades and then spit out the back spout, to steadily fill the big chuck wagons that lumber to the silo.

Suddenly, the sickening screech of metal grating against metal screamed from inside the chopper.

"Dad's gonna' kill me," badly overstated the junior farmer as he trudged into the kitchen that afternoon. In a greasy, grimy hand, he held out the once flat, and sharp chopper blade, a distinct, ragged curvature creasing its middle.

Seems a bolt that had been lost off the windrower on an earlier trip had decided to rejoin the haying process, taking the route directly through the churning blades.

Verdict? A whole new set of blades. Six. At sixty bucks each. Plus a lost load of silage to be dumped somewhere, since chopped metal bits in feed wreak havoc on cows' digestive systems.

Nor is the windrower one of the farm's most heavily used pieces of equipment, immune to "breakdownitis." While it sat idled in the shop for several days, awaiting a distant replacement part, one of our many generous farm neighbors shared the use of equipment.

When the part did come, it arrived minus a certain special-sized bolt. Which took another day or two to put in an appearance.

God bless our kindly neighbors.

Even as I write this, another machinery snafu rears its ugly head. A band on the silo blower has snapped. Chalk up another 200 dollar part. Or maybe he can weld it, muses the farmer.

I grumble and sometimes feel immense frustration of these costly delays-even though 20 years experience tells me they're inevitable. The men, though, remain almost saintly in their patience to repair and return to the task.

Visitors from the midwest stop by. They mention the hailstorm that wiped out almost their entire grain crop while they made a 200-mile round trip for equipment repair parts. And a plague of grasshoppers followed, devouring all foliage, even down to the cabbage stems in the garden.

Our equipment breaks down, putting up what promises to go on record as a bumper harvest here in the Northeast. Cows should eat well this winter. People, too.

And the farmer and I look at each other, and silently count the blessings that sometimes get forgotten in the constant rush of this farming business.

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipe comes from Anna Jane Glisson, who is featured in our Homestead Notes story this week. Although Anna Jane is busy with preparations for the upcoming Solanco Fair, she took time to share this special crumb cake recipe with the Lancaster Farming readers.

In addition to her love of needlework, Anna Jane also enjoys cooking. She says this is one of her family's favorite recipes.

Crumb Cake

2 cups flour
2 cups granulated sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup milk
nutmeg

Mix the first four ingredients together well. This will make a crumb-like mixture. Save ½ cup of the crumbs for the top of the cake. To the remaining crumbs, add the eggs and the milk and mix well. Pour batter into a greased and floured 13x9-inch baking pan. Put reserved crumbs on top. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake at 350°F. for 25 to 30 minutes.

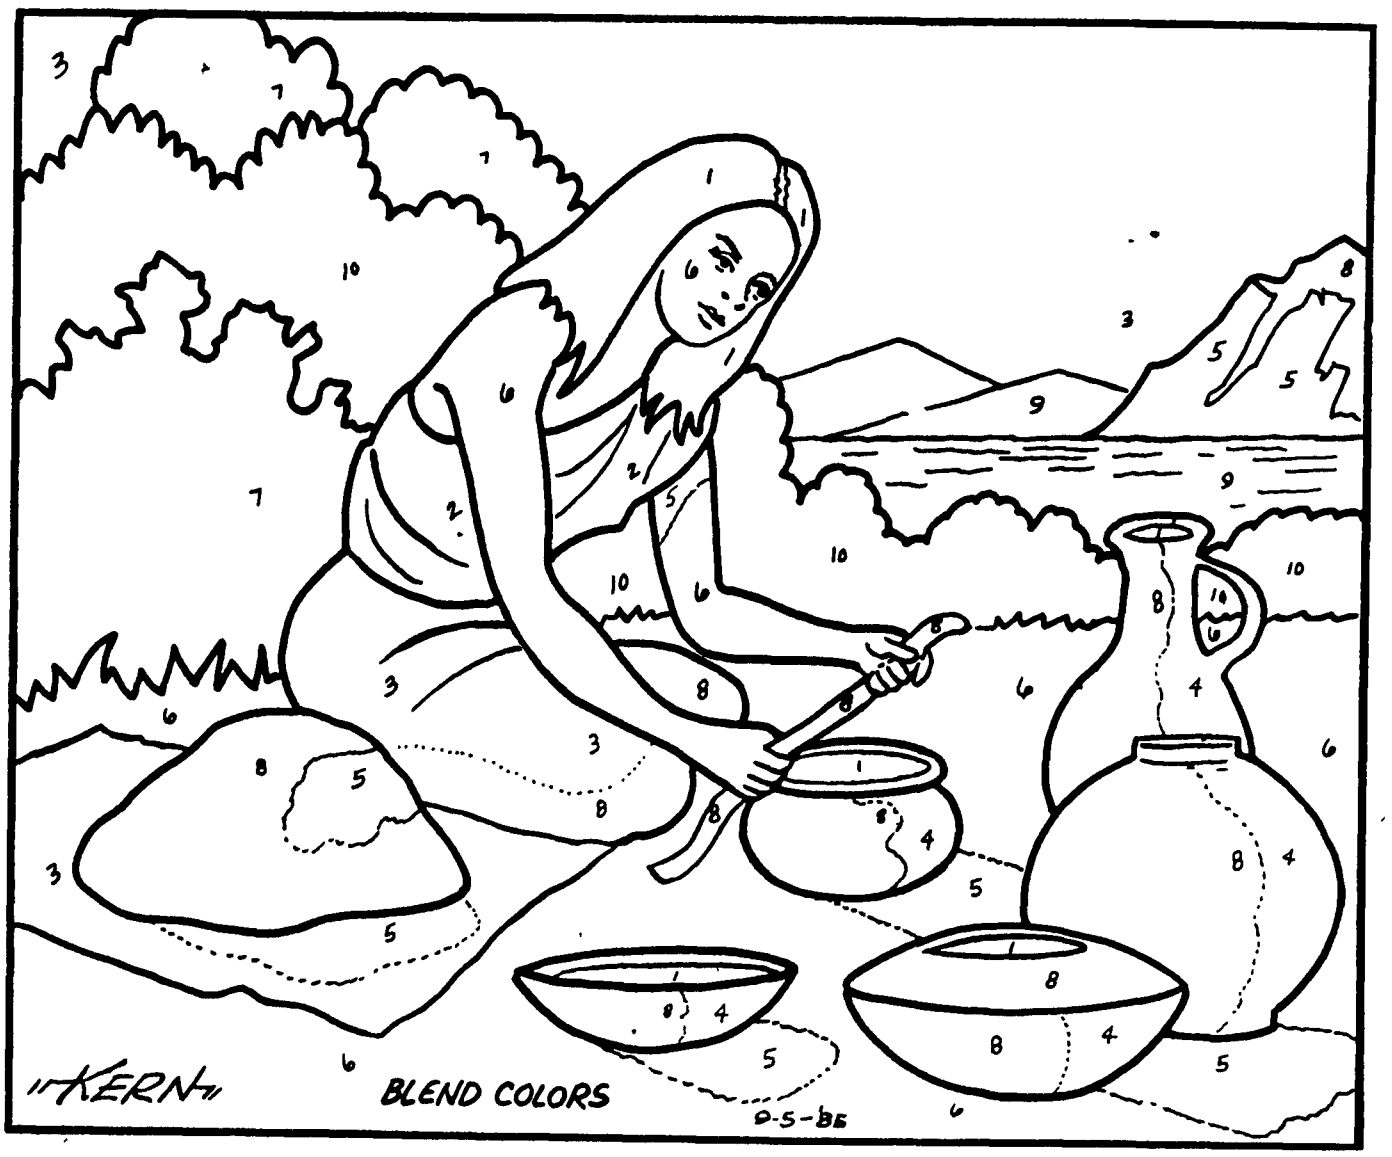
POTTERY- A LONG TIME AGO OUR ANCESTORS FELT THE NEED OF CONTAINERS FOR WATER AND FOOD. THEY FOUND IT POSSIBLE TO FORM WET CLAY INTO JARS AND BOWLS OF VARIOUS SHAPES. THE FIRST CLAY VESSELS WERE DRYED IN THE SUN. PEOPLE FOUND OUT THAT THE CLAY VESSELS BAKED IN A FIRE WERE BETTER. IN TIME THEY LEARNED TO PUT ON WATERPROOF GLAZE.



Pull through the tough spots with a White Farm 4WD.

WHITE FARM EQUIPMENT

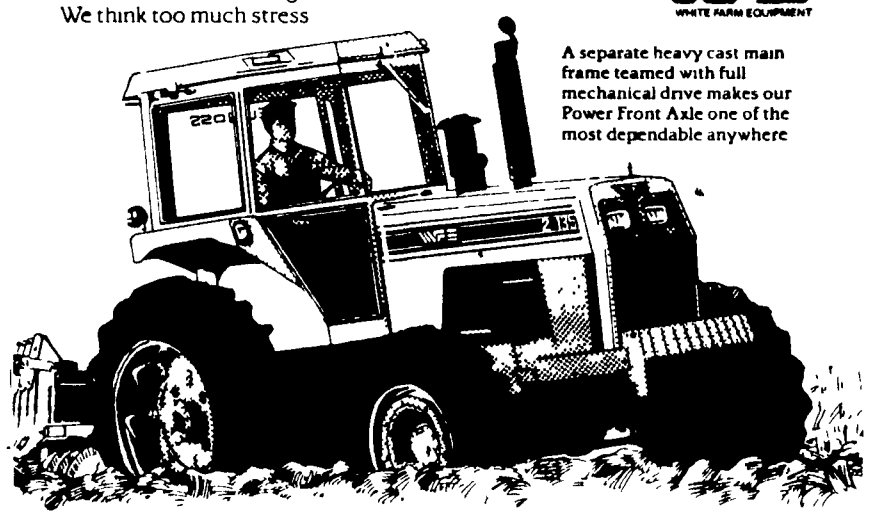
When wet spots or other tough areas slow you down, a quick shift into four-wheel drive can make all the difference. And all it takes is a Power Front Axle option on your 2 135, 2 155 or 2 180 Field Boss® tractor.

4WD is not created equal. If you think all Power Front Axles are the same, look again. Most tractors use the engine as part of the structural frame. Adding four wheel drive puts a lot of stress on the engine block. We think too much stress.

It's one reason why every Field Boss has a separate main frame casting. The engine is cradled inside it. Besides adding hundreds of pounds in working weight to the tractor, this separate main frame handles the extra stress of the four wheel drive.

Experience for yourself the quality and value built into our Power Front Axle. Proven with 24 years of on farm use.

WHITE FARM EQUIPMENT



A separate heavy cast main frame teamed with full mechanical drive makes our Power Front Axle one of the most dependable anywhere.

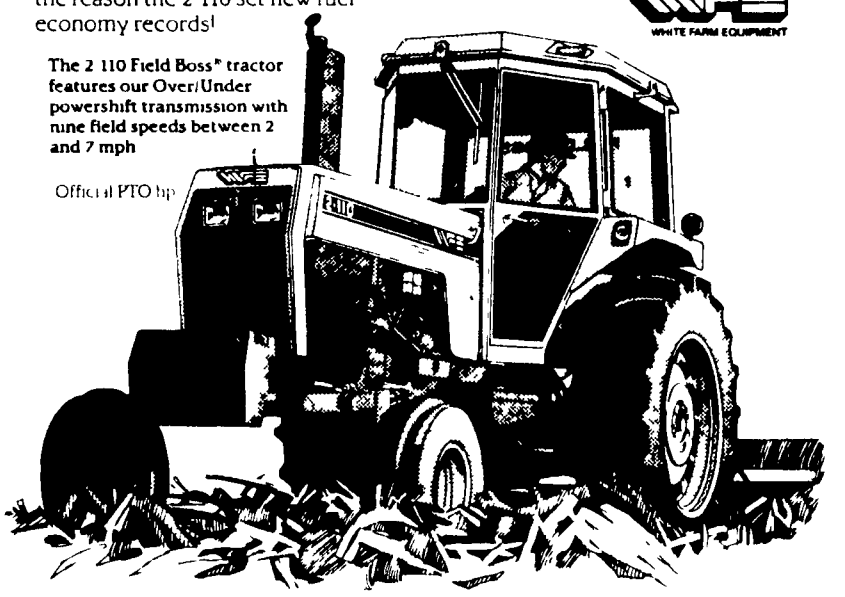
Convenience and comfort. Our standard 6x6 Over/Under powershift transmission lets you shift on the go through three ranges in each of six forward gears. All shift and hydraulic levers are conveniently located on the right hand console.

Come in today and experience for yourself the quality and value built into every 2 110 Field Boss. You'll like what you see.

WHITE FARM EQUIPMENT



The 2 110 Field Boss® tractor features our Over/Under powershift transmission with nine field speeds between 2 and 7 mph.

Official PTO hp

—— Feel the quality. Experience the value. ——

The White Farm-4-270. When you've got more land than time.

At 270 hp, the 4 270 Field Boss® tractor gives you the power to pull big tillage tools whatever the conditions.

Power that doesn't stop. Our exclusive 4x4 shift on the go transmission gives you sixteen forward speeds - eight in the critical range of 2 to 7 mph. Plus every main gear setting lets you use four power shift speeds to increase speed or torque up to 71 percent.

Power when you need it. To pull you through heavy soil, this turbo charged, aftercooled engine has a torque rise of 27 percent. Yet variable timed fuel injection prevents excessive fuel consumption.

Come in today and experience for yourself the 4 270 Field Boss. It's a lot of tractor.

WHITE FARM EQUIPMENT

A turbocharged, aftercooled engine gives the 4 270 Field Boss power to pull tillage tools through any kind of field.

A more valuable disk chisel.

All disk chisels can save topsoil. But White Farm's 435 Conservation Chisel Plow also saves time and money.

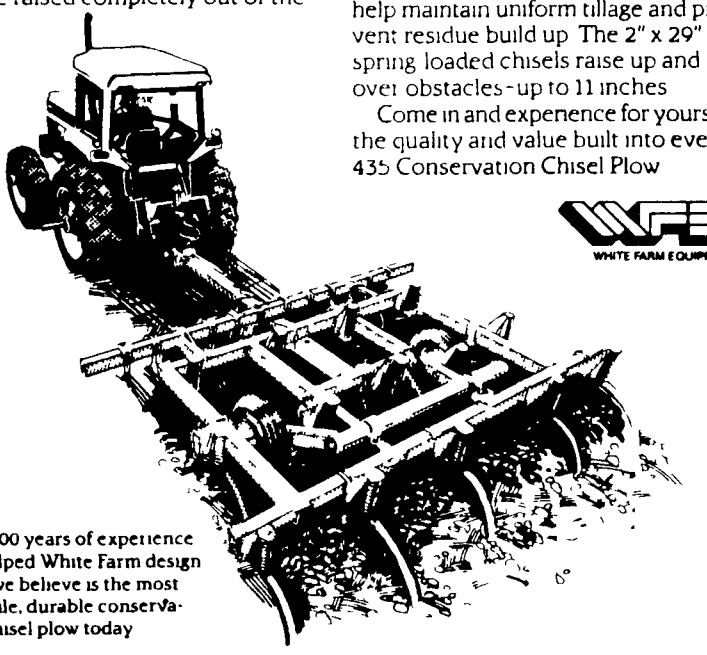
Versatile concave disks up-front. Individually mounted 22 inch blades are hydraulically controlled to let you determine the amount of residue that remains on the surface. Disks can be raised completely out of the ground for maximum conservation, or lowered for maximum tillage.

Big 4" x 6" frames. Our steel box beams have 25 percent more weld area at every joint than competitors' 4" x 4" beams.

Chisel shanks every twelve inches. Three ranks of chisels spaced twelve inches apart on a long 90 inch frame help maintain uniform tillage and prevent residue build up. The 2" x 29" spring loaded chisels raise up and over obstacles - up to 11 inches.

Come in and experience for yourself the quality and value built into every 435 Conservation Chisel Plow.

WHITE FARM EQUIPMENT



Over 100 years of experience has helped White Farm design what we believe is the most versatile, durable conservation chisel plow today.

It's Apple Time

September brings apples to the ground and to the table. Here's a harvest of microwave apple recipes for you to enjoy for breakfast, lunch or dinner. They are quick and easy to make in your microwave.

These stewed apples can be ready to eat in less than 10 minutes. They are delicious warm for breakfast with pancakes or over ice cream for dessert.

Stewed Apples

2 medium apples, peeled, cored and sliced
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon butter or margarine

1. Mix cinnamon and sugar in a small cup. Put apple slices in a 1-quart casserole and toss with cinnamon sugar. Dot with butter.

2. Cover, and cook on high for 2 minutes. Stir, then cook for 30-60 seconds longer until the apples are almost tender. Let stand for several minutes before serving. Serve warm or cold. Serves 2-3.

This apple cobbler has the flavor of an apple pie, but takes much less time to make.

Apple Nut Cobbler

2 pounds tart cooking apples (about 6), peeled and sliced
1 teaspoon lemon juice
⅔ cup white sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup flour
¼ cup chopped nuts, such as pecans or walnuts
1 cup bisquick
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon cinnamon sugar

1. Melt 1 tablespoon butter in a small cup (Cook on high for 30 seconds). Set aside for topping.

2. Put apple slices in a 2-quart casserole or 9-inch round cake pan and toss with lemon juice. Mix white sugar, cinnamon and flour together and sprinkle over apples, toss to coat the apples.

3. Cover tightly with lid or plastic wrap. Cook on high for 8-9 minutes, stirring twice, until the apples are almost tender.

4. While apples are cooking, combine Bisquick and brown sugar in a bowl and stir in milk, melted butter and egg. When the apples are tender and hot, drop batter in spoonfuls around the edge of the cooked apples, leaving the center open. The topping puffs up a lot, so use small spoonfuls. Sprinkle cinnamon sugar on top.

5. Cover with waxed paper and cook on high for 3 to 3½ minutes, until topping looks dry and cooked. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

TIP: For an extra quick dessert, substitute 1 (21 ounce) can apple pie filling for the fresh apples. Heat the pie filling on high for 4-5 minutes, until hot and bubbling, then top with batter and continue with Step 4.

The Apple Relish below is delicious with roast pork or poultry. Try it for an easy to make treat!

Apple Relish

6 chopped, unpeeled cooking apples (about 6 cups)
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup raisins
¼ cup brown sugar, packed
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon each ginger and cloves
Dash salt

1. Mix all ingredients in a 2-quart casserole. Cover and cook on high for 8 to 10 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until the apples are tender.

2. The relish may be served immediately, however, the flavor develops more if it is refrigerated overnight before serving. Serve either warm or cold. Serves 8.

NOTE: The times above are for 600-700 watt microwave ovens. For 500-600 W, add 10 seconds to each minute; for 400-500 W, add 20 seconds to each minute.

DEALER INQUIRIES INVITED

Eugene Wingert and "V.I. Peeps" congratulate Jenny Brown of Somerset County for winning the youth category of the state egg recipe contest.

Two $1000 prizes awarded in recipe "eggs-travaganza"

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER – Jennifer Brown, Garrett, and Joyce Moul, York Haven, are both $1,000 richer because of recipes they created which feature eggs as the primary ingredient.

The two are state winners in the first Pennsylvania Egg Recipe Contest, sponsored jointly by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, the Pennsylvania Egg Marketing Association and the American Egg Board. They were selected Sept. 7 from among 14 finalists, seven each in the junior (grades 6-12) and adult categories. Each of the 14 finalists had already won $200 in a regional contest before coming to Lancaster.

Jenny's recipe was "Brunch Eggstrata," and Joyce's was "Huevos Fiesta."

Vernon Ross, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, coordinator for the first-ever program in Pennsylvania, said there were 1511 recipes submitted statewide to the contest. The recipes were selected first on a county level by home economists, then the dishes themselves were judged on a regional basis. The dishes were prepared and judged again in the state contest.

Ross said the level of participation surpassed anything they had hoped for when the contest was first discussed. The number of recipes made Pennsylvania the number one state in the country in terms of participation, followed by Georgia with 1,000 recipes entered.

Thirteen-year-old Jenny created her recipe during a snow storm at her home in Somerset County. Thrilled to be a winner, said she already has plans to use the money for a new sewing machine. This 4-H'er from Somerset County takes sewing as one of her many 4-H activities. She is also active in the dairy club.

Jenny said she entered the contest because she thought it would be "lots of fun" and she was "excited and happy" with the outcome. The strata recipe was a natural because her family eats many stratas for their convenience. Jenny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, operate a dairy farm, and they like the recipe because it also uses a lot of milk.

In preparation for the contest, Jenny said, "I made the recipe a lot."

Joyce Moul is not new to cooking contests, having placed third in the Pennsylvania apple contest and second in a bread contest, as well as being a finalist in the Pennsylvania beef contest.

She said she entered because the York County Home Economist gave her the information when she visited the radio staion where Joyce works. She is promotions director for Q106 and operations manager for WNOW in York. After being named the winner, Joyce said, "I'm stunned."

Joyce noted, "I don't enter every contest, only if I think it is something I can do well with. I don't do desserts well, for instance."

About her cooking ability she said, "I learned the basics from my mother and German-style cooking from my mother-in-law, who was born in Germany. I have an extensive collection of cookbooks."

Another incentive for her cooking is "a husband who likes to eat." She and her husband, Gordon, have a son whose wedding date was delayed a week so Joyce could participate in the contest.

The recipes were judged on their nutritional quality, the ease of preparation, taste appeal, appearance and creativity. Each recipe was required to have one egg per serving.

The two winners are now being sent to a screening on the national level. Top national winner receives $5000, with runner-up prizes of $1500 and $1000. The first place national winners in both the junior and adult categories will travel to the Southeast Poultry Convention in Atlanta to receive their prize money.

Al Wenger, Wenger Feeds, and industry chairman for the event, termed it an "outrageous success." All the recipes from the regional winners will be featured in a brochure printed by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Here are the winning recipes.

BRUNCH EGGSTRATA

12 slices day-old bread, cubed
8 eggs (well-beaten)
1 cup chopped onion
4 cups milk
2 cups ham (cubed)
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Butter a 9x13-inch baking dish and place bread cubes evenly over bottom. On top of bread, layer ham, onion and cheese. Beat eggs, milk and seasonings together and pour over ingredients in baking dish. Let stand 15 minutes and bake at 350°F. for 45 to 50 minutes. Serves 8.

HUEVOS FIESTA

6 large hard-cooked eggs
2 strips bacon
3 large whole fresh green peppers
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
2 tablespoons chopped green chilies
½ cup chopped onion

Jenny Brown and Joyce Moul show off what's left of their prize-winning egg recipes after the judges had a taste and declared them the state winners.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fourth letter from Lancaster County IFYE Jody Henkel. She is living and working in Greece. For more information about the International 4-H Youth Exchange programs, call U.B. Bakker at the State 4-H Office, 814-865-6551.

Dear Friends,

Sometimes the greatest question asked of me is "What is the most important part of this trip?" The answer? People.

Of course "people" seems the standard answer, but it is the answer. I could not have this trip without people. It would only be a place that has a history if I did not stay with families. The families help me live Greece. The people even dress like most Americans, although women tend to wear skirts more than they wear pants and shorts.

But, needing people. Where do I start? Fern and I needed each other when we flew to Greece. We were companions for each other, but it was also good to have someone to look after luggage while the other found a hand cart or argued with the taxi driver.

What? Argue with the taxi driver? Yes, you should see a 5-foot-1-inch redhead with an Irish temper try to get through to a Greek taxi driver and tell him where we need to go. And as for people, the information service gave us their help, too. We needed someone!

Another example is the Farm School. How much more fun it is to work with people. Time goes easily when there is someone with you. You know, though, most of my time at the Farm School was spent with people who were not Americans. It makes you see how much smaller our world can be. That is why this exchange is so important. It helps open our eyes to the differences and similarities in our world. And it is our world.

Now that I am staying with families, the need for people is the same. They pick me up and take me to their houses. They take care of me, sharing meals and opening their homes and hearts. For the Greeks, they spend their greatest times at the cafeterias. A place to get a drink, sit and talk. They love to talk, for this is their way of socializing with each other. If it were not for these people, I would definitely be alone — and would have returned to the United States by now. Only people make the difference.

Maybe this letter is short, but look around you. Do you really appreciate your friends and tell them so? I know I cannot do without my friends. And maybe that is why I am stopping in Holland in November on my way back to the United States — to see my new Dutch friends. I have found I need them too.

One of my goals for this trip was for people to see that we need each other — even if we are from different countries. I hope you also can know that it brings our world closer! Look around!

Love,
Jody

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

September is always one of the busiest months for me. Every corner of my garden calls for attention.

The cucumbers that I expected to be bearing in July, while I was on vacation, are only now giving me more than I can handle. It's a good thing that my children really like my pickles, as then we'll get them all eaten.

The Concord grapes that grow around our smokehouse are ready to be picked, but they'll have to wait until I finish freezing sweet corn. We always plant the patch of sweet corn after all of the field corn is in, and so the harvest is late.

Just now I am picking from three different plantings of green beans. The Kentucky Wonder beans grow on a permanent fence. I'll have to find some buyers, since they are quite prolific. My two freezers are full and so I cannot put any more in them. Years ago, I canned beans, but I don't want to do that as I need the cans for fruit.

You see, I'm not satisfied with my own plentiful crops, so I go out and buy peaches, pears and plums. Right now I have one-half bushel of ripe Bartlett pears waiting to be peeled. They do take time.

This is one year that my tomatoes stopped bearing early. But I'm not complaining, as I still have 30 quart from last year. The crop that I really enjoy gathering is planted behind our house on a southern slope. When I pick cantaloupe or watermelon from my own patch, I feel a sense of accomplishment. Maybe it is because I've only been raising them for a few years. However, they do seem to taste better than purchased ones.

State Education Association calls for more parental involvement

HARRISBURG – What are the key ingredients to quality education?

A recent Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) survey shows that parental involvement and community support are the most important factors contributing to school effectiveness.

The statewide survey of thousands of Pennsylvania teachers was conducted for PSEA by the Industrial Psychology Program of The Pennsylvania State University.

Researchers found that teachers who reported high levels of community and parental support for public education also report more effective curriculum, more adequate instructional resources, more effective discipline policies, and higher levels of teacher job satisfaction.

"The findings clearly indicate that even with abundant teaching materials, adequate counseling services, and well-prepared teachers, educational reform will not be a success unless public schools garner public and parental support," said Nancy M Noonan, PSEA president.

Fewer than half the teachers said they are satisfied with community support for their schools.

But, when researchers examined the responses from teachers in high, middle, and low-income districts, they found disturbing differences.

While 60 percent of the teachers in high-income districts said they are satisfied with community support for their schools, only 36 percent of the teachers in low and middle-income school districts agreed.

Noonan said that the differences between income groups reflect the dwindling financial support for public education.

"During the past ten years, state funding of public education has fallen from 55 percent to 43 percent of total instructional resources.

"An extreme financial burden has been placed on local school boards, particularly in low and middle-income districts which do not have the income or local tax base to go it alone."

Noonan said the state should make a concerted effort to boost its financial commitment to public education.

She also outlined ways parents can get involved with schools, teachers, school boards, and their own children's education:

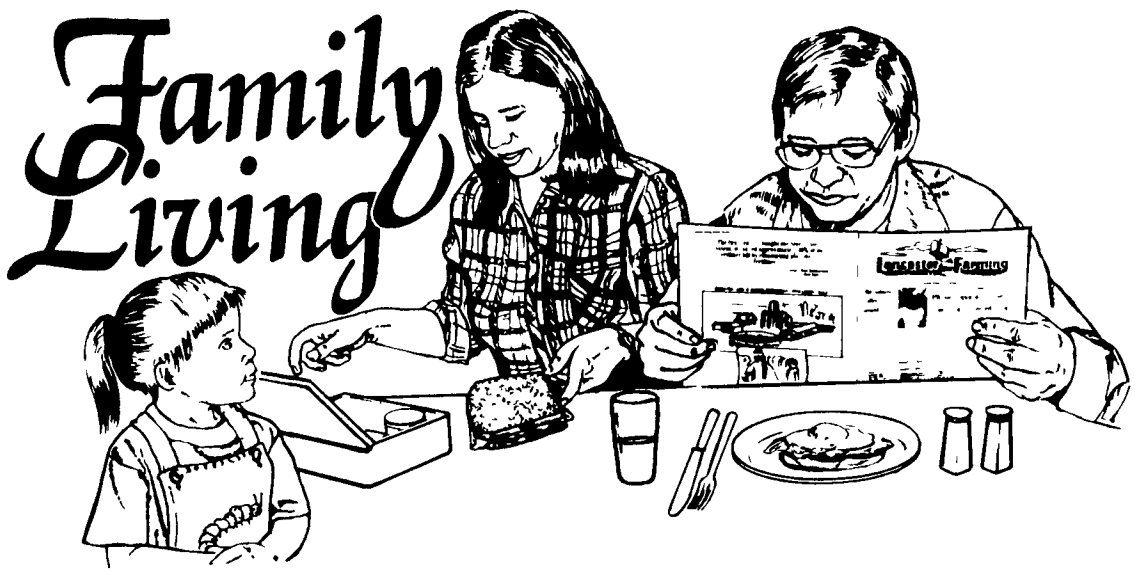
– Visit your child's class. Talk to the teachers in depth, not just in change meetings. School visits enable you to see the educational environment–the classroom–where your child studies. It will also increase communications and interaction among you, your child, and the teacher.

– Discover how your local school board operates by attending school board meetings. Speak up on matters that concern you.

– Be active in parent/teacher groups and work with teachers to plan useful provocative programs.

– Try to understand the teachers' problems so that you can speak intelligently for improvements at school board meetings.

"By knowing teachers, by being aware of curriculum, and by supporting your school, parents motivate their children and become a vital part of the educational excellence movement," Noonan said.



Take responsibility for your child's education:

Be part of policy-making

MEDIA – Getting your children off to school in the morning is not the end of your responsibility. The quality of your children's education may well depend on your ability to be an advocate in their interest.

Now more than ever, parents need to be actively involved in setting school policies, rules and regulations. In many schools students come from such diversified backgrounds with differing educational goals that parents cannot assume the outcome of even routine school policies. Yet the outcome of those decisions affects the school life of your children They can also have disruptive effects on your family patterns and schedules.

School boards and advisory groups are made up of parents and residents who have an interest in their school system. But sometimes the focus or interpretation of a problem does not coincide with your viewpoint. Sometimes well-meaning groups press for a change which solves their problems but creates unforeseen problems for your children.

For instance, changing the hour for school to end may solve certain transportation problems for the school, but it may also create after-school care problems for a particular group of young children. Cutting down on school heating costs by opening the school doors later in the morning may save money, but it can also disrupt family commuting patterns and schedules.

Those who make school policies, rules and regulations need you, your point of view and your information to help them make balanced decisions. Don't wait for others to decide what to do–be part of the process yourself.

For your children's sake, speak up–make yourself heard and make sure your opinions are considered Go to school meetings; talk to your friends and neighbors who represent you on the school board or committee Even better, volunteer to be part of a fact-finding committee so that you can be part of the solution. You, your children, and your school will all benefit by your participation.

Balancing Act

As students everywhere march back to school it brings back memories for many of us...some fond and some not so fond. I wonder if the classrooms are still painted the same school green? I wonder if they still play four square on the elementary school playground. I wonder if my high school locker stills exists and if my old combination still works!

Probably none of these things are quite the same as I remember. We had different heroes that were featured on our lunchboxes. And we didn't dream of going to school in jeans or shorts until about 1972. I remember the big breakthrough in seventh grade when girls were finally allowed to wear pant suits!

An anonymous philosopher once said, "The only thing that is changing is everything." That describes what is happening each September to our schools, our children and our families. Perhaps the best approach we can take is to be ready to adjust.

I am certain that much has happend within your family during the year. At the very least, each member has grown a year older and has an additional year's worth of experience under his or her belt. Each one sees things differently and has different goals and interests.

One of the most frequent causes of family readjustment at this time of year is the addition of extra-curricular school activities. Whether it's football, debate team, school newspaper, field hockey or band, students who are involved spend many after-school hours and often strain the family's daily schedule. The family dinner hour which has been lauded by family life experts for years is definitely under strain. Today's cook doesn't arrive home from work until 5:30 and the game may be starting at 7:00 in the next town.

In my family each of us had a different event and schedule to contend with between soccer, field hockey and band. The schedules often did not mesh, yet everyone still got hungry! It was certainly a balancing act to keep our family "circus" together, and more often than not my parents picked up the extra burden to make things click.

Most important is that families take some time now to plan for family and the extra-curricular activities. Priorities will need to be established and evaluated. Kids often need guidance in deciding how many outside activities they can handle effectively.

We were always encouraged to be what my mother called "well-rounded," meaning to develop interests and skills in a wide variety of things. At the same time the balancing act came into play with the phrase, "Don't spread yourself too thin!" Talk about how much the student and the family can handle.

To avoid tensions, take time to talk about the responisiblities and chores at home that need to work into the schedule. Making a family calendar and posting these items makes them more visible and easier to remember in a hectic schedule.

Finally, plan some family time into your schedule. This should be a time set aside when everyone comes together to talk, share and have a good time as a family unit. How often it occurs is not as important as the fact that your family does spend time together.

Initially, this family time may seem like just one more item to throw in the juggling of the schedule. However, it will serve as a ballast in keeping the family together and the communication lines open.

This fall may be bringing many changes to your family. Starting a family time may be the best change yet!

Ladies Have You Heard?

Use Care When Drying With Your Microwave

What do parsley and mushrooms have in common with alfalfa? Answer: the microwave oven. The homemaker may be drying parsley and mushrooms for human consumption while the farmer may be drying alfalfa in the microwave oven in preparation for forage analysis.

Some precautions need to be taken if you are considering using your microwave oven for any of the above purposes.

First, check to see if the manufacturer recommends using your oven for drying. Some microwave oven use and care manuals do not recommend using the oven for drying. Furthermore, the warranty may be voided if the oven is damaged from drying food or other material in the oven.

If available, follow the manufacturer's instructions for the drying procedure. Some microwave oven manufacturers give specific directions for drying foods or flowers. Some instructions recommend placing a cup of water in the corner of the oven as a safety precaution.

Never use recycled paper products as containers for drying foods or flowers because small metal particles in the recycled material may get hot and cause a fire.

Do not use paper containers with metal clips or staples because of the danger of causing a fire when the metal gets hot. The metal staples could also cause arcing which might damage your oven.

Since moisture content, as well as amount of material being dried will vary, drying time will vary, which means that any material being dried needs to be watched carefully. Never leave the oven unattended when drying food or flowers, because the over-dried material could catch fire very easily.

In case of fire turn the oven off and leave the door closed until the fire self-extinguishes.

Manage Money Together

She does the cooking and I do the money. Are you locked into that old fallacy? Today more than ever before, husbands and wives must manage their money together.

Just think of the alternative. Statistically, more women than men are alone in older age to manage on their own. Are you ready? Are you confident that your wife is ready to meet those demands? If either of you answer no, then this reminder is for you. Too many widows and divorcees have suffered monetary losses and personal stress because they were not included in family financial management.

Over half of all adult women work for money outside the home. While the amount may not always be a fortune, it is money that needs to be managed. Who makes those decisions? Do you both agree on your financial priorities and planning? Do you even know what they are?

Managing money is a skill that will not only save you money but will save you time. In today's hetic world it's hard to know which is more important. But the fact remains that each of us who spends money should be responsible for where it goes and how it goes.

Wicker baskets, decorated with rainbow-bright Rit Dye colors, make eye-catching home accessories and totes. Use brightly colored baskets to highlight a dark corner, coordinate with a room's colors, or fill them with the season's flowers and add a spot of color.

Unfinished wicker takes dye so well, the colors seem to emerge from within. Small baskets can be dunked in the sink using a hot concentrated dye solution; larger baskets can be dyed using a large sponge Or just paint on the dye with a paintbrush for decorative designs.

To dye unfinished wicker, use a dye solution of ½ cup of liquid dye in ½ cup of hot water; or mix one package powder dye into 1 pint of hot water.

For a softer color, wet the basket first; for a more intense color sponge or paint the dye directly onto the dry basket. The sponge or brush can be used to paint dye in a smooth, even color all over the basket; or, dab brush ends or sides of the sponge over the surface to create a stippled pattern as you go. It is important to always keep the dye solution hot.

After dyeing, let the basket dry completely. Next, spray the basket with a clear plastic finish from an art supply or hardware store. If a protective spray is not used, be sure to rinse dyed baskets in cool water to remove excess dye.

For special effects try dipping the baskets in two to four dye baths of successively darker shades in the same color family. Or, try weaving a dyed ribbon or yarn through the basket for a rainbow look.

Drizzle-dyeing is another easy technique for unfinished wood products, rice paper or canvas. Take special care, however, to cover work area with plastic.

Begin by filling separate squeeze bottles with hot concentrated dye solution. For a concentrated solution mix ¼ cup of liquid dye into 1 cup of hot water, or dissolve ½ package powder dye in 1 cup of hot water. Hold the bottle in a downward position, squeeze and allow dye to drip down the material.

Old baskets can be lightened with undiluted bleach. After the bleach has been allowed to set on the basket for 5 to 10 minutes, rinse thoroughly and allow to dry. These "whitened" baskets can be easily painted with bright dye colors once the basket is completely dried.

For additional creative and economical dyeing ideas send for the free exciting Rit Dye· , Color It Rit and the Rit Dye color Chart. Simply write to RIT/5pks, P.O. Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

Farm Talk

by

Jerry Webb

Technological changes have come rapidly to agriculture. New methods and new machines replace the old ones as farmers struggle to make a living.

Obviously the horses and the equipment that were important in 1935 are nowhere to be found today. They were replaced long ago by tractors and bigger machines. But it's a little frightening to look back and realize how quickly that next generation of farm tools was phased out and how many more generations there have been since then.

I was reminded of this recently while driving the back roads of Kent County, Delaware. I happened upon three modern-day machines — all less than 30 years old — rusting in the corner of a field. From the growth of vines and weeds surrounding them and the condition of the equipment, it was obvious they had not been recently abandoned.

There they were — a hay baler, a combine and a corn picker, the pride of agriculture only a few years ago. No doubt they had served well and had been replaced by bigger, better machines. They were rusting away in a fence row, a silent comment on the changes that agriculture has gone through.

Those three machines were the heart of some farmer's production system in the 1950's. A time when the country was at war and farm prices were at all time highs. How quickly agriculture changes.

The implements of the 30's and 40's are gone. You hardly even see them anymore. The seemingly modern two-man pickup balers, two-row corn pickers and six-foot combines of the early 50's are rusting in hedge rows.

And where are the machines of the 60's & 70's? Probably behind the barn where they are still scavenged for parts, or used only in an emergency.

It won't be long before a working two-row corn picker will be as rare as a double shovel. The Old New Holland baler that mechanized haymaking is already only a memory.

With the exception of the tractor, no machine ever introduced to agriculture had more impact than those first small combines. There was a machine the average farmer could own and run himself, with no help other than his wife or son to pull the grain wagon. His summer no longer had to be spent cutting and shocking grain, waiting for the thresher, or working on every farm in the neighborhood so he could get a crew to thresh his own crop.

I remember well the year Dan Horton bought a combine. I had worked for him during my teenage summers when I had the chance, driving a tractor, riding the binder, shocking grain or pulling a bundle wagon.

The last summer I worked for him, which must have been about 1950, he bought a combine. He didn't plan to; in fact, he hated combines, claimed they cost too much, wasted grain and didn't do anything that couldn't be done otherwise.

But we were having a very wet summer and Dan couldn't get his binder into the fields. When it finally did dry out he was way behind with grain fields past their prime for the binder and no way to catch up before the grain started to ledge or shatter very badly when the binder finally did arrive. So he made arraqngements with a custome operator who had one of those little six-foot combines to come in and help him out.

It took only a few days to harvest everything. That was the end of threshing. Dan was so impressed he bought the fellow's little combine on the spot.

That was the last year for threshing in our part of the country. Just like that, it ended. Dan threshed what grain he had cut with the binder, pulled the big machine back in the shed and never used it again. A couple of years later he traded the combine on the first self-propelled combine in our neighborhood.

The thresher and the small combine and the binder, and a lot of other equipment that served agriculture so well at the time, went to the scrap heap, the wood lot, the hedge row or wherever old farm machinery goes to die.

I suppose that self-propelled combine has gone there also, replaced by a larger model with enclosed cab, air conditioning, AM/FM radio and tilting, telescoping power steering. The Farmall H and the two-cylinder John Deere tractors are gone, along with other small tractors of the time.

Agriculture has changed, and it continues to change. Today a 5-year-old combine is obsolete and must be replaced by an improved model that sells for the price of a farm back when that old machinery was new. I guess that's progress. And if it isn't, I sure don't know what to do to change things.

Forests: where the action is

UNIVERSITY PARK – What is a forest? The answer to this question depends on which definition one is willing to accept.

A forest is a very dynamic place in spite of its outward tranquil appearance Some of the people who define the word "forest" never so much as hint about the multitude of things taking place in a forest.

One definition describes it simply as a tract of woodland Another, a dense growth of trees and underbrush covering a large tract

Obviously, trees and underbrush are necessary; without them, there is no forest Still, a forest is a great deal more.

Ecologists describe it as an ecosystem, which is an interaction system composed of living organisms together with their nonliving environment. It is made up of soil, water, many plants besides trees and shrubs and a wide variety of animal life which could include a range from insects to deer

Interaction is the key word in understanding the forest and the members of a forest system a bird nesting in the branches of a low shrub two tree seedlings competing for space in which to grow, the nutrients in a body of water.

Additional aspects of the dynamics of a forest ecosystem include births and deaths, respiration, transpiration and photosynthesis Some follow an annual cycle, and certain ones, like photosynthesis, also follow a daily cycle

One hears a lot about recycling in this age of ecological awareness. Man can learn much about this concept from all ecosystems, including the forest. Nutrients and other materials tend to move in circular paths within an ecosystem. An atom of some element may be used over and over again by the plants and animals of the forest if man does not interrupt the cycle

It should be abundantly clear that a forest is "where the action is"

To qualify as a forest, a group of trees must have crowns, or tops, that are close enough together to create [illegible] understory, lower to the ground. The shade must be dense enough to promote natural pruning of some trees

Pruning refers to the removal of the lower limbs of a tree Natural pruning occurs because the lower shaded limbs of many trees die from the lack of sunlight Eventually, these limbs break off and fall to the ground, leaving the bole, or trunk of the tree, relatively clear

There should be an accumulation of organic material covering the mineral soil of the forest floor. This material is made up of matter that once was living or was a part of some living organism. It includes leaves that have fallen; twigs, limbs and pieces of bark; fruits like black cherries, acorns, hickory nuts or the winged fruits of maple; flowers and seeds; animal wastes or whole animals that die; and entire annual plants.

From the above requirements, we can state with certainty what a forest is not It is not a newly planted plantation, since that does not have crown closure An abandoned field or a revegetated spoil bank would both fail on these grounds

A spoil bank is a mound of unusuable soil and rock material excavated in strip mining operations, and does not show any appreciable accumulation of organic material even after the trees reach a considerable size

Neither the single tree, the few scattered trees in a well-groomed city park, nor the once forested area that has been so heavily harvested that only a few scattered trees remain qualify for obvious reasons. These more closely fit the definition of urban forest, where individual trees assume much greater importance If left undisturbed, most of these situations would eventually become a forest

As long as the requirements for crown closure and accumulated organic matter are met, as long as there are animals associated with the trees and shrubs, and as long as nutrients and other materials move through the system in somewhat circular paths, size is unimportant

Obviously there is some minimum below which these requirements cannot be met, probably in the neighborhood of a couple of acres But from there, size can increase to cover several thousand square miles

A forest is far more than space occupied by trees and shrubs. It is a dynamic, functioning unit of ecology and includes animals as well as plants

Now, perhaps, the phrase, "can't see the forest for the trees" may be a little clearer

No-till drills added by Tye

Twenty-foot no-till drill with deep banding fertilizer coulters.

LOCKNEY, TX – The Tye Company has introduced fully adaptable No Till Drills with deep fertilizer banding options. Utilizing a standard Tye Drill or a Tye No Till Stubble Drill, the grain farmer can add No Till and Deep Banding Fertilizer options as he chooses. As cultural practices change, he now has a way to take advantage of new cost saving conservation planting trends

In fact, the farmer can adapt his current Tye Drill to these new No Till and Deep Fertilizer Banding options–saving major investment costs.

Available for traditional row spacings and for new paired row combinations starting at six inches, the farmer may structure his Tye Drill to match his local conditions

Deep Banding Fertilizer Coulters allow placement of fertilizer–below and to the side of the seed row–maximizing fertilizer utilization as the plant grows Equipped to readily handle a variety of fertilizers, Deep Banding Coulters offer the farmer a true fertilizer application method without tillage. Tye's No Till Attachment can even be used in the off-season to apply fertilizer.

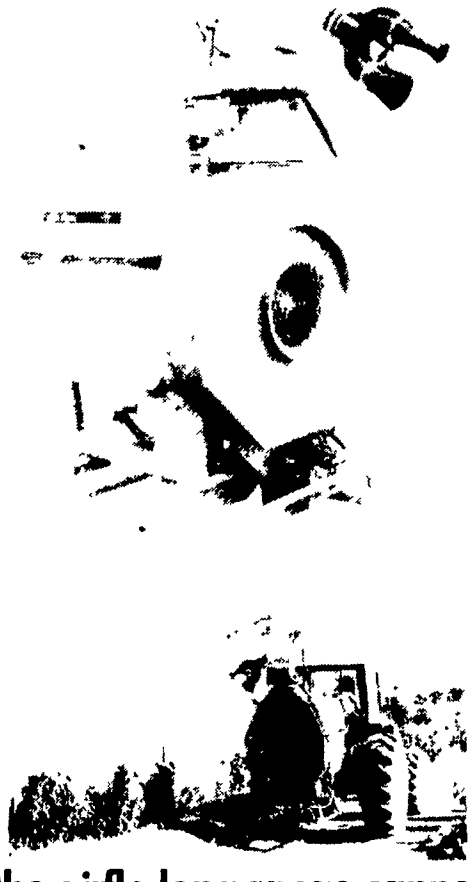
the airflo long range cannon has 5 major advantages



More air
Its exceptionally powerful 39 inches fan delivers an air speed of 280 MPH and is recommended for use with a tractor of 60 or more horsepower

More penetration
The AIRFLO LONG RANGE CANNON ensures excellent coverage for vegetables row crops and trellised plants
The cannon sprays up to 130 feet with each pass
The swivel head can be moved in any direction from the tractor seat

Improved coverage
Two smaller air spouts to ensure coverage of the blind spot between motor unit and the cannon

Greater precision
The AIRFLO LONG RANGE CANNON has a self regulating control system The fluid flow rate is proportional to the R P M s of the P T O and therefore to the speed of the tractor (for a given tractor gear speed)
This is your guarantee of improved dosage and therefore of improved treatment

Greater adaptability
With the DS 401 piston diaphragm pump (12 gallons/minute at 284 P S I), the double high and low pressure circuits and the declutchable fan it can also be used with a hand gun (for winter treatments weeding and for washing down the tractor)

Greater user facility
. operating with the fixed cannon
Standard equipment includes a hydraulic remote control for height adjustment and a hydraulic motor for lateral (left-right) adjustment to ensure the best possible orientation of the cannon
. operating with the oscillating cannon
Electronically controlled electro magnetic device for regulation of the swing arc In this way the coverage can be adjusted extremely precisely and the treatment defined exactly to take account of the wind Usage is easier and leads to considerable savings in the quantity of chemicals excellent for use in irregularly shaped areas the airflo long range cannon total perfection

for more effective treatment.

New 'Agricenter' to feature advanced irrigation

EAST MEMPHIS, TN – The latest in irrigation technolgy will be in place and operational in time for Agricenter International's Grand Opening on October 24, 1985.

Agricenter is the nation's first international marketing center for agriculture. Agribusiness companies from throughout the United States and at least one foreign country are leasing space on a 365-day basis in the 140,000 square foot exhibition pavilion.

Valmont Industries, Valley NE, has installed three different irrigations systems and also will lease space in Agricenter's Exhibition Pavilion to exhibit the latest in irrigation technology.

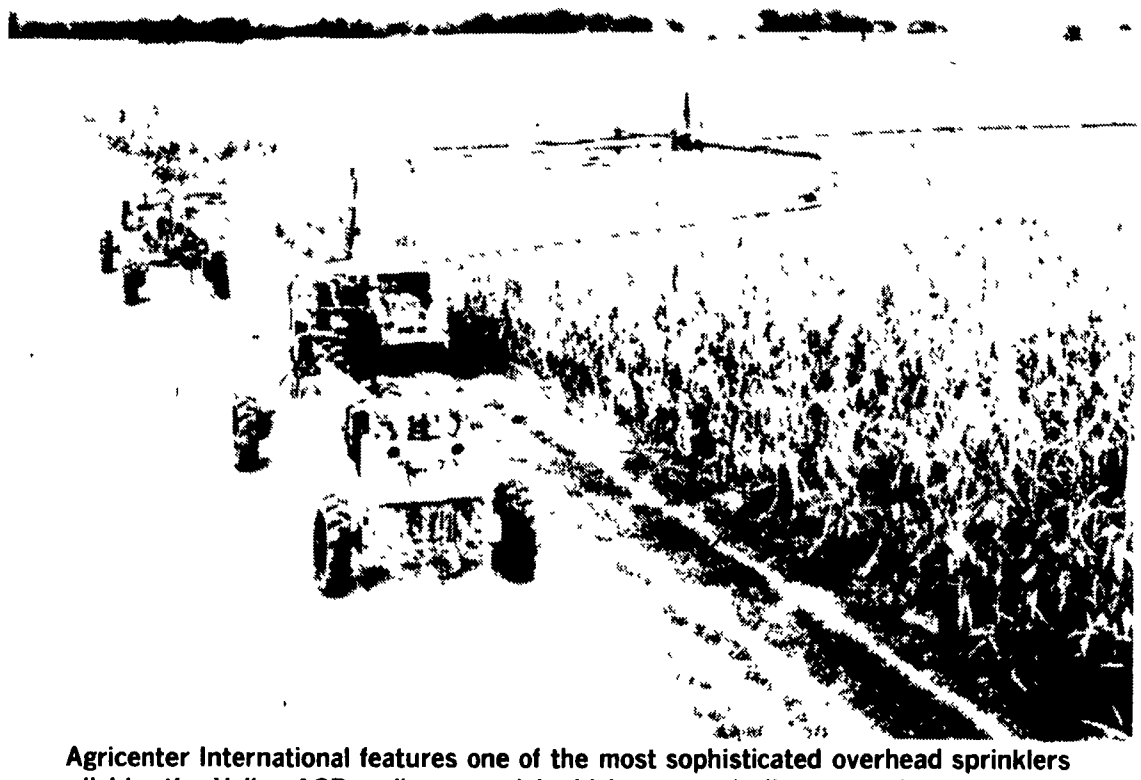
These irrigation systems will help make Agricenter the irrigation capital of the world and will irrigate about 180 acres of the Demonstration Center next to Agricenter's 1.5 mile long staging corridor.

The lineup of irrigation systems includes one of the most sophisticated overhead sprinklers available - the Valley ACD. This system is a linear model which automatically moves through a field drawing water from a buried mainline via a series of risers. The other two systems are a hose drag linear, manufactured and sold outside the U.S., and a towable center pivot.

"Agricenter International will soon become a must stop for international visitors. We plan to use the facilities frequently for our visitors from around the world," said Chuck Murphy, Vice President of Marketing for Valmont Industries.

Several other irrigation companies are finalizing plans for their participation at Agricenter.

Events planned during Agricenter's Grand Opening include Agricenter Agribition, a three-day farm show, on Oct. 24, 25 and 26; a ribbon cutting ceremony; guided tours and field equipment demonstrations.



Agricenter International features one of the most sophisticated overhead sprinklers available, the Valley ACD, a linear model which automatically moves through a field drawing water from a buried mainline via a series of risers.

Inter-State gives patronage refunds

SOUTHAMPTON – Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative distributed $253,443.46 in patronage refunds Sept. 1 to 3,004 members and patrons, according to Treasurer Evan L. Fineman.

This was the 49th payment from Inter-State's revolving fund, which began in 1936. Since then, the cooperative has returned more than $5.5 million to its members, Fineman siad.

The patronage represents 80 percent of Inter-State's allocated net margin for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1973. The refund was based on the pounds of milk each member shipped to the cooperative from Aug 1, 1972, through July 31, 1973.

Inter-State currently revolves its patronage refund on a 12-year schedule.

Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative represents about 3,100 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. The cooperative marketed more than 2.5 billion pounds of milk in fiscal 1985.

USDA fines top $600,000

WASHINGTON — U.S. Department of Agriculture officials reported that fines imposed by USDA on individuals who bring prohibited agricultural products into the United States now total well over a half-million dollars.

Under a nationwide program begun in 1984, USDA inspectors at major U.S. airports fine international travelers from $25 to $50 on the spot if they fail to declare or deliberately conceal foreign food, plants, or plant and animal products. The program is one part of USDA's effort to protect U.S. agriculture from foreign animal and plant pests and diseases.

"Most travelers don't realize that a foreign animal or plant disease or pest could be introduced into the country by bringing in a prohibited agriculture product from overseas," said Bert W. Hawkins, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

"A small piece of foreign sausage, for example, might carry foot-and-mouth disease virus that could threaten the health of the nation's livestock," Hawkins said, "or just one insect in a piece of foreign fruit carelessly discarded on U.S. soil could cause an infestation like the 1981 outbreak of the Mediterranean fruit fly in California, which cost taxpayers $100 million to eradicate."

Hawkins said that since the beginning of the USDA program to find prohibited agricultural products in the baggage of international travelers, total fines imposed by USDA inspectors have exceeded $639,000.

In the month of June alone, USDA inspectors found 1,784 violations and collected $54,490 in fines. So far in 1985, USDA inspectors have issued 10,526 civil penalties to violators and collected $297,780 in fines. In 1984, 12,078 violators were fined $341,845.

Hawkins said that a USDA pilot project now uses dogs at four international airports around the country to help find meat and fruit in the baggage of passengers. The beagles, on leashes and under constant supervision by Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service Inspectors, are friendly to people while they work. If the beagles find prohibited foreign agricultural products that have not been declared, travelers are fined on the spot.

Hawkins said travelers can obtain a free pamphlet listing restrictions on foreign agricultural products by writing: Travelers' Tips, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Room 700 Federal Bldg., Hyattsville, Md. 20782.

Beef, sheep prices down

Hogs up at Maryland Fair livestock sale

TIMONIUM, MD – With at least three major buyers from previous years notable by their absence, average and top prices for most species of livestock lagged behind the levels of recent years during the annual 4-H and FFA livestock sale, held Aug. 28 at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

The average price for market hogs, however, improved significantly over a year ago. But average prices for lambs were the lowest since 1979 and the average for steers – both beef and dairy – was the lowest since 1978.

None of the prices for individual grand champions approached the record levels established a year ago. But new high-water marks were set for the reserve champion market hog and the champion pair of market lambs.

Mike Weber, 11, of Trump (Baltimore County) sold his 255-pound grand champion market hog for $4 per pound. The Yorkshire-Duroc- Hampshire crossbred barrow was purchased by the Hatfield Packing Co. of Hatfield, Pa.

Hatfield also purchased the reserve champion market hog, a 230-pound purebred Duroc barrow shown by Gregory Soper, 11, of Warfieldsburg (Carroll County). That animal brought $3.50 per pound – the highest price ever paid for a reserve champion market hog at the Maryland State Fair.

In the absence of Esskay Quality Meat Company of Baltimore, a major sale supporter in past years, the Hatfield organization puchased 16 of the 40 market hogs offered in this year's state fair 4-H and FFA livestock auction. Some ringside observers noted an unusually high percentage of gilts being sold.

Average price for the 40 market hogs offered was $1.05 per pound. This compared with an average price of 83¼ cents last year, 96 cents in 1983, and $1.19 in 1982. Prices for grand and reserve champion animals are not included in the averages.

Beef

Howard County exhibitors continued their domination of the 4-H and FFA beef steer competition by showing the grand champion animal for the fifth consecutive year. They also swept championship honors for all of the breed classes and had the top two placings among county county groups in the beef steer show.

Mark G. Moxley, 16, of West Friendship exhibited the grand champion steer for the second consecutive year. The 1,250-pound Angus and Maine-Anjou crossbred brought $5.50 per pound from Graul's Super Thrift grovery store in Hereford (Baltimore County).

Mark sold last year's grand champion steer to the Graul supermarket chain for a state fair record price of $8 per pound. It was a 1,255-pound Angus-Chianina crossbred.

Another Howard County exhibitor, Sheryl Bennett, 15, of Florence, had the reserve champion steer for the second consecutive year. Miss Bennett also was selected this year as fitting and showing champion in the 4-H and FFA beef steer competition. This latter award has been dominated exclusively by residents of neighboring Howard and Montgomery counties for the past six years.

Sheryl's 1,285-pound Angus breed champion brought $1.10 per pound in this year's sale. It was purchased by Thomas Meats of Shrewsbury, Pa.

A third Howard County exhibitor, Chris Mullinix, 10, also of Florence, had the champion Hereford in the state fair 4-H and FFA beef steer show. The 1,215-pound animal brought $1.15 per pound from Graul's Super Thrift of Hereford (Baltimore County).

In addition, Chris exhibited the champion Hereford and supreme champion breeding animal in the state fair 4-H and FFA purebred beef heifer show.

Average price for the 35 steers sold in this year's state fair 4-H and FFA livestock sale was 73 cents per pound – the lowest since 1978. This compared with 84½ cents per pound last year, and 82 cents in both 1983 and 1982. Prices for grand and reserve champions are not included in the averages.

Sheep

In the market lamb sale, Rebecca Hope, 14, of Burkittsville (Frederick County) sold her grand champion, a 110-pound Hampshire wether, for $5.50 per pound. It was purchased by Graul's Supermarket of Annapolis.

In addition, Miss Hope teamed her grand champion lamb with a 115-pound Hampshire wether to win the grand champion pair award in this year's state fair 4-H and FFA market lamb show. She also had both the champion Hampshire ram and ewe and the supreme champions of both sexes among all breeds int he state fair 4-H and FFA breeding sheep show.

Her second market lamb of the grand champion pair brought $4.10 per pound from Graul's Supermarket of Cape St. Claire (Anne Arundel County). This is the highest price ever paid in the champion pair category for lambs at the state fair 4-H and FFA livestock sale.

Another Frederick County resident, Robert Dinsmore, 9, of nearby Broad Run, won individual reserve champion honors in this year's state fair 4-H and FFA market lamb show with a 115-pound wether. It, too, was a Hampshire. The animal brought $2.50 per pound from Graul's Super Thrift of Hereford (Baltimore County).

Not counting champions and reserve champions, the 53 market lambs offered in the state fair 4-H and FFA livestock auction averaged $1.15 per pound. Ten of the lambs were resold, with resale proceeds going to the Maryland 4-H Club Foundation or for support of 4-H livestock judging activities in Howard and Harford counties. Figuring in these resales brought the lamb sale average down to $1.10 per pound.

Reserve market hog honors went to Gregory Soper of Warfieldsburg. Hatfield was buyer.

Harvest Fair, plowing contest open today in Schaefferstown

SCHAEFFERSTOWN – Today marks the start of Historic Schaefferstown's 15th annual horse plowing contest and 18th annual Harvest Fair. Led by Jacob Mays and Paul Waltermeyer, teams of horses, mules, ponies, and oxen will demonstrate their skill in plowing straight, deep and uniform furrows.

Sunday, Sept. 15, beginning at 12 noon, the annual horse pull and a plowing demonstration will be featured.

On both days spectators will see a 20-mule hitch with a covered wagon and watch the skilled maneuvers of Jennie, the lead mule in providing steady and skilled operation of the large team.

Other demonstrations include threshing with the newly installed ring power, a horse-operated saw mill, a tread power, corn grinding, cider making, apple butter cooking and a large number of crafts.

"Gschmokte warscht and Schnitz Boe," (Smoke sausage and Schnitz pie) will be available for tasting and a variety of homemade foods will be available. Cooking demonstrations will be conducted on the upper and lower fireplaces and the large 1771 bake oven will bake bread.

The large cider press will turn our fresh cider, and freshly roasted corn meal will be available for mush cooking. Blue mountain tea and other teas and herbs will be provided by Leo Bixler of Tower City.

Goat and dog power will drive a washing machine and a butter churn, and the 100-year-old saw mill will be sawing logs. Visitors may see the large collection of antique farm implements and visit the historic Schaeffer house, the log house over the spring, the garden and the new blacksmith shop.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 12 noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $2.50 for adults, and children are free.

Schaefferstown is located at the junction of Routes 501 and 897, seven miles east of Lebanon.

Spectators can enjoy a 20-mule team and covered wagon at the Schaefferstown Harvest Fair today and Sunday.

Drill With The Case International "5100 Special"

Outstanding accuracy begins with IH feed cups that deliver seed uniformly. Dual rib press wheels then compact the soil around the seed and gently "pat" the top to prevent air holes. The result is uniform germination and an emergence toward higher yields.

SPECIAL OFFER ON CASE IH 56 FORAGE BLOWER

The 56 forage blower has smaller capacities than the 600 blower but sports many features that help make the small to medium sized operation efficient It can throw forage up to 100 feet in the air and blow up to 70 tons of haylage per hour or up to 100 tons of corn silage per hour A simple efficient 45-degree feeding auger assures fast, steady feeding and the hopper extends out 20 inches from the rotor to provide ample clearance between the blower tractor and the wagon tractor

The 56-inch diameter rotor has six adjustable paddles that reach a tip speed of 7 900 fpm for top blowing capacity and it's straddle mounted for better weight distribution and greater reliability Like the 600 it has a handy auger clutch control and separate rotor and feeder drives

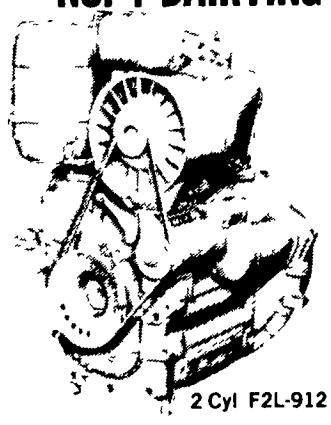
NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL



2 Cyl F2L-912

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

New Rating Coming Soon:
29.5 HP @ 2000 RPM
22 HP @ 1500 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

PLUS - FAMOUS DEUTZ FUEL ECONOMY

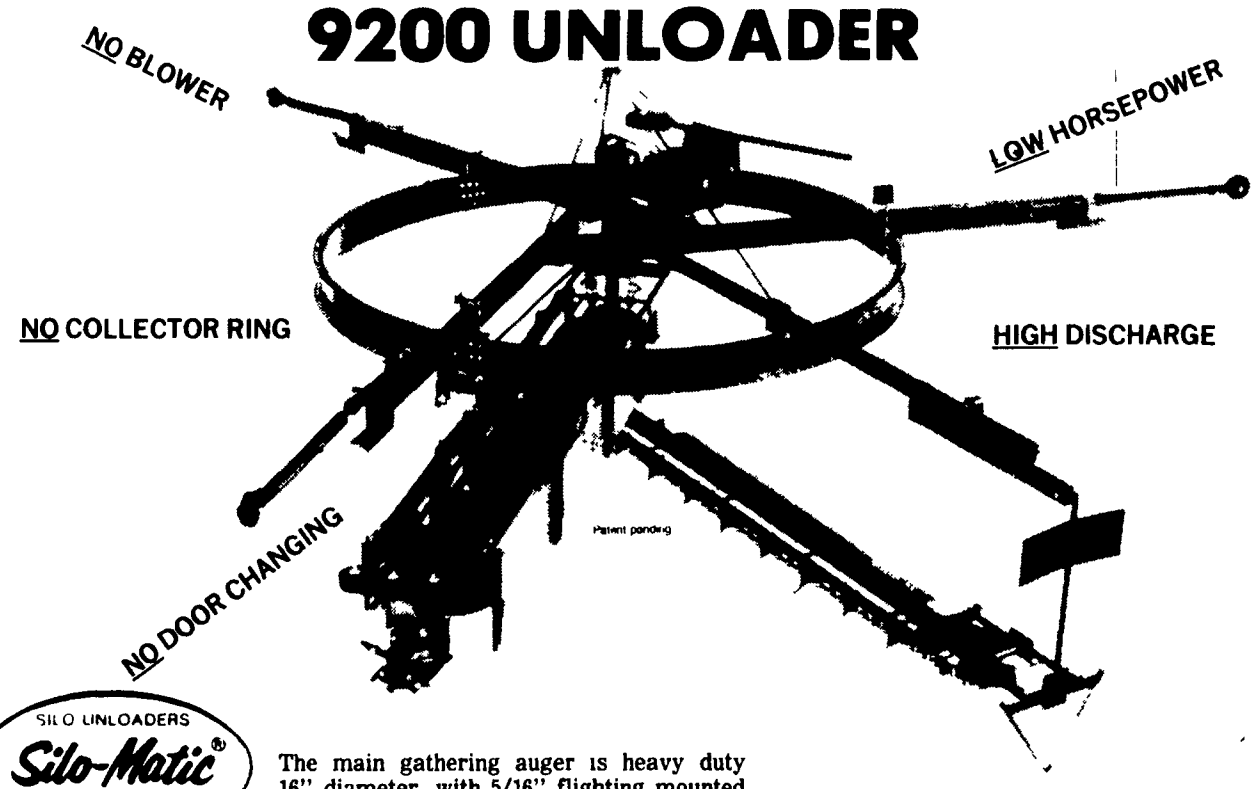
FICKES SILO CO. PRESENTS
The NEW Silo-Matic
9200 UNLOADER



SILO UNLOADERS
Silo-Matic®
FEEDING SYSTEMS

The main gathering auger is heavy duty 16" diameter, with 5/16" flighting mounted on a 4" tube. The auger has adjustable front and rear 14 gau. galvanized shields, for maximum capacity. The auger is powered by a 60 lb. gearbox which brings forage to the center for the delivery chain.
To deliver the high volume of forage from the sweep auger to the inside chute, a heavy duty hook chain with hardened cutters is used to convey the forage. The stainless steel top shield is easily removed to adjust the chain if needed. The plate and V pipe keep the delivery chain positioned over the inside chute in the forage.

York Fair hosts 10th Chi Field Day

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — Over 60 head of Chianina and Chianina-crossbreds swelled the beef population at the York Fair last Sunday, as the breed association held its tenth annual field day and show in conjunction with the fair's activities.

Taking the grand champion honors in the steer show was Michael Messick, Middletown, who had earlier won his light middleweight class division.

Dr. Bill Henning, Penn State meats specialist who judged the show, then went to his second-place steer in the same weight class for the reserve champion honors. Angie Longnecker, Lititz, was the exhibitor of the reserve champion.

Heifer classes were split into a full-blood American Chianina division and a Black Heifer division. Karen Brothers, East Berlin, was named the champion in the full blood division, with her Class I heifer entry, over reserve champion Douglas Moore, exhibiting the Class II winner.

Champion in the Black heifer division went to Yorker Jamie Kohr, over her sister Kerri Kohr's reserve placing.

Livestock editor's note: With this week's edition, Lancaster Farming inaugurates an all-new series of livestock columns. Appearing on successive weeks each month will be columns dealing with beef, poultry, sheep and swine, written by four Penn State Extension specialists widely recognized as experts in their respective fields. New to the pages of Lancaster Farming will be beef specialist Dr. Lester Burdette, poultry specialist Dr. Forest Muir and sheep specialists Dr. Clair Engle. We're happy to report that Dr. Ken Kephart will be remaining on board as our swine columnist.

For your convenience, each column will appear during the same week each month. We'll begin with beef on the first Saturday of the month, and proceed in alphabetical order, with poultry, sheep and swine. (Pork producers would no doubt prefer calling them "pigs" so Kephart could come in second, but them's the breaks.)

And all our Chet Hughes disciples need not be alarmed. Our beloved Lancaster County Extension livestock expert will continue to appear on a biweekly basis.

For some time now, the staff has felt that the livestock industry deserved more even-handed coverage of all four species. This is our first step in that direction.

We're confident you'll find our panel of experts interesting and informative.

Introducing...Dr. Forest Muir:

Ventilation Maintenance

BY FOREST MUIR
Extension Specialist in Poultry Science
Penn State University

Poultry producers and managers realize that bird comfort is extremely important for maintaining productivity. Hot weather is the most stressful time on both the birds and the ventilation system. Therefore, most poultrymen fine tune the ventilation system and have it operating at peak efficiency before hot weather arrives.

During the past few weeks, many pountry ventilation systems have been operating almost continuously at full capacity. This has afforded little time or opportunity for the operator to perform routine maintenance and cleaning of the system.

We are coming to the end of extreme summer temperatures. Now would be an excellent time to perform that delayed fan maintenance. Cleaning dust from fans, motors and shutters will improve air flow and result in cooler and more efficient operation of the fan motors.

A good rule of thumb is that dirty shutters will decrease air flow comparable to a .1 inch increase in static pressure A properly managed poultry ventilation system will be operating at a static pressure of .04 to .06. If dust has been allowed to accumulate on the shutters, the air flow from the fans would be comparable to operating the system at a static pressure of .14 to .16. Although the actual decrease in air flow varies from fan to fan as static pressure increases, an increase in static pressure from .05 up to .15 can be associated with an approximate 10 to 20 percent decrease in air flow.

The belts on the fans should also be checked for tension. Loose belts on fans should be avoided. Even 15 percent slippage can result in cubic feet per minute air flow reduction of 20 percent with clean shutters. The air flow reduction would be greater with dirty shutters.

Unless fans and shutters are routinely cleaned and belt tension adjusted to manufacturers' specifications, it is very easy to project fans operating at only 50 percent of the anticipated air flow.

'Meaty bids' offered at Indiana Junior Livestock Sale

BY DONNA MCCONAUGHEY
Staff Correspondent

INDIANA — The Indiana County Fair ended on a positive note for 4-H and FFA exhibitors in the livestock barns. The 23rd annual Junior Livestock Sale resulted in strong prices for all animals despite current low market reports.

Topping the sale in dollars per pound and breaking the existing record was the grand champion market lamb. The purebred Suffolk ewe shown by Lisa Coleman of Saltsburg sold for $16.50 a pound to Evergreen Motors of Indiana.

Lisa has shown animals for many years but is a new champion winner in the sheep division. Lisa raised her lamb from the Suffolk flock she purchased this spring from Clyde and Darlene McConaughey.

The reserve champion market lamb was shown by Kathy Bishop of Homer City. Her crossbred lamb sold for $5.50 to Dr. Frazier VMD of Homer City.

Kathy also exhibited the champion market hog. The 215-pound crossbred sold for $5.50 a pound to Luther Ford Inc. of Homer City. Kathy has shown several champions also in beef, sheep, and hog competition at the Indiana County Fair.

The Grand Champion Market Hog and the animal winning Grand Champion Hog Carcass were littermates and were Duroc-Berkshire crossbreds bred by Clayton Winebark.

The reserve champion market hog was shown by a young 4-H exhibitor, Bryan Martin of Marion

Indiana Fair debuts premier showmanship

BY BETH NESBIT
Staff Correspondent

INDIANA — On Aug. 29, at the Indiana County Fair, spectators witnessed for the first time a premier showmanship contest.

Sponsored by the Clayton Winebark and the Clyde McConaughey families, the contest featured the six champion showmen in the categories of beef, dairy, goat, horse, sheep and swine.

The senior division winners in the 4-H and Future Farmers of America junior shows had been judged earlier in the week at the fair, and in Thursday night's contest, each winner was required to show one animal from each of the six categories.

According to the sponsors, judges were looking for the contestants' showmanship abilities, their courtesy and sportsmanship toward their fellow exhibitors, the fitting of their animals along with their own personal appearance. The knowledge of the species of which each individual was chosen champion in was also a major part of the final decision.

The McConaughey family has been actively involved in the 4-H organization in many aspects for 41 years. Clayton Winebark has been involved in one form of Future Farmers of America of 4-H ever since 1943. Both families have been volunteers, members or leaders in one form or another in the Indiana County 4-H and FFA organizations.

After the intense competition was over Suzie Ruffner of Indiana stood at the top. "I had never done anything like this before," said Suzie, the daughter of Barbara Ruffner. "I think the contest is a great idea and should be continued. It really provided a challenge."

Ruffner, who has worked with horses since she was about two years old, has won several master showman awards with her registered quarter horse, Corals Mindy. She attributed her win to "determination."

"The whole idea of this contest is to let the contestants get experienced in showing other species," Winebark said. "Once my son, Ken had won a showing contest at Penn State and was required to show a horse, and he had never been exposed to showing a horse, being raised showing livestock."

The other champion showmen who competed in the contest were: Lisa Coleman of Clarksburg R.D., beef; Pete Cattau of Clune, sheep; Lori Winsheimer of Homer City, dairy; Shelly Novak of Blairsville, dairy goats; and Darrin Johnson of Creekside, swine.

Judges for the event were Wendell Mckissicki, Lawrence County; Joyce Holimen, Indiana County; Dr. William Wise, Jefferson County; and Gaylen McDonald, Bedford County.

Indiana Sale

Center. Brian also exhibited a crossbred which weighed 230 pounds. It was purchased by C.L. Ruffner and Son of Indiana for $5.25 a pound.

The steer competition was topped by another long time exhibitor. Roy Shearer of Avonmore exhibited the grand champion steer. It sold to Indiana Shop 'N Save Markets for $3.60 a pound.

Lisa Coleman's grand champion market lamb set a sale record when Fred Kunkle of Evergreen Motors offered $16.50 a pound.

The Reserve Champion Steer was shown by young Stacey Fyock of Penn Run. Her crossbred was purchased by Elkin Conrete of Indiana for $1.95 a pound.

Perhaps even more outstanding than the champion prices were the sale averages obtained on live animals. More than 100 head of hogs averaged $1.11 without champions and $1.19 with champions. Fifty-eight lambs averaged $1.18 without champions and $1.56 with champions. Thirty-five steers averaged $.81 with champions and $.68 without champions.

Also auctioned at the sale were the champion and reserve champion carcasses of each species.

Kathy Bishop of Homer City claimed two more championships in this division. She sold the champion hog carcass for $4.50 a pound to Joe Defelice of Punxsutawney. Kathy's reserve champion beef carcass sold for $2.25 a pound to Bonarrigo Inc. of Blairsville.

The Reserve Champion Hog Carcass was exhibited by Bob Mikesell of Marion Center. His entry sold for $4.50 a pound to Indiana Shop 'N Save.

The grand champion beef carcass was shown by Jim Scott of Clarksburg and also sold to Indiana Shop 'N Save. The price tag on this 658 pound carcass was $2.65 a pound.

The grand champion lamb carcass was shown by Larry Snyder of Creekside. Giant Eagle Supermarkets purchased the 42-pound carcass for $13.50 a pound.

The reserve champion lamb carcass was shown by Jan Lightcap on Marion Center. Donald and Mary States owners of the 7-11 store in Indiana purchased the 52-pound carcass for $11.25 a pound.

According to auctioneer, Clayton Winebark, the sale gross set a new record at over $74,700, and the sale averages were also the best ever Approximately 120 buyers supported this year's Indiana County Junior Livestock Sale.

Roy Shearer's champion steer sold to Donna Hartman of Indiana Shop 'N Save.

NY co-op to conduct Oct. feeder calf sale

ANGELICA, NY – The Angelica Feeder Sales Cooperative Inc. will conduct the first annual sale for beef cattle yearlings only at 1 p.m. Oct. 5 at the Angelica Feeder Sales Barn.

The sale, which is open to cattlemen across the state, is sponsored by the Southwestern Division of the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association.

Jim Ford of Angelica, secretary of the Angelica Feeder Sales Cooperative Inc., said the yearlings-only sale (cattle born in 1984) has been scheduled to meet buyer requests for feedlot cattle earlier in the fall than the November feeder sales, and also in order to do a better job of marketing both yearlings and feeders.

"Early October is a good time to bring these yearling cattle to market. The grass, especially this year, will be gone and it will be time to move the cattle to volume feedlots and to attract the best prices for them," he said.

He added that by having a separate sale for yearlings, the Nov. 2 Feeder Calf Sale at Angelica would be better able to market feeder calves. "In 1984 we had 700 head of yearlings and feeders at the fall sale and this strained our facilities," Ford explained. He said, "by selling the yearlings in a separate sale we should be able to get better prices for our heavier feeders in November."

Ford is asking that cattlemen wishing to consign to the Oct. 5 Yearling Sale contact him as soon as possible at 716-466-7872 or at RD1, Angelica, N.Y 14709.

The New York Beef Cattlemen's Association will sponsor its regular series of Fall Feeder Calf Sales across the state in November.

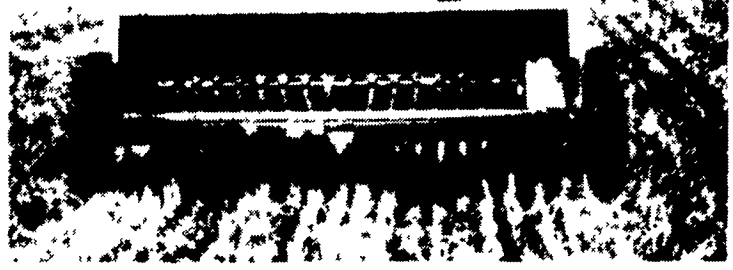
LILLISTON 9680
NO-TILL GRAIN DRILL



For Heavy Stubble and Hard Soils

The new Lilliston 9680 No-Till Grain Drill will operate in maximum severe conditions, where uniform penetration of heavy stubble and hard soils is required. Unlike some of the so-called "no-till" drills available today, which are actually conventional drills with front coulters added, the Lilliston is designed, from the ground up, for one purpose: No-till seeding.

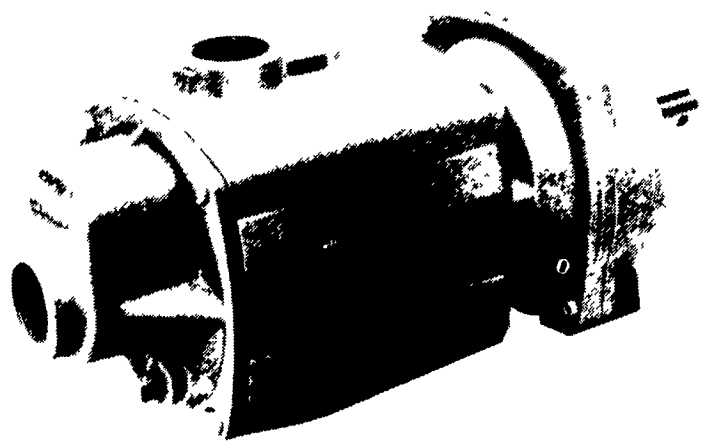
Hypro adds new pump



Hypro has introduced a new self-priming centrifugal pump that works as a sprayer pump (with an output capacity up to 85 GPM and pressures to 80 PSI) and as a filling pump (with a suction lift that exceeds 16 feet). An excellent choice for tank filling and other liquid transfer tasks, the Hypro has a pressure-tested cast-iron housing with closed-type, molded-nylon impeller mounted on a hardened stainless steel shaft. It is available with Hypro's standard drive mechanisms or with planetary gear or hydraulic motor drive. A pedestal mount configuration is available to adapt to customers' own drive systems. The Hypro hydraulic motor features a fixed displacement internal gear design for smooth operation. An integral by-pass needle valve regulates the hydraulic oil flow to the gears. A double-lip Teflon shaft seal provides exceptional reliability even with hydraulic back pressure.

Seedway honors dealers

Seedway, Inc. recently held its twelfth annual Eastland Seeds Dealer Meeting, at the Berkshire Sheraton Inn, Reading. Over 40 dealers from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland received in depth information on a wide spectrum of seed corn, small grain, grass seed, and allied products. The program also honored several local dealers for sales achievement. Award winners are shown above with Seedway sales executives. From left, are Philip Van Lieu, Seedway Salesman; Lawrence and Joyce Ann Harris of Henderson, MD; Alice and George Holmes of Cream Ridge, NJ; Hugh Markham, Seem Seed Farms General Manager and Sherry and Bert Waybright of Mason Dixon Farms, Gettysburg.

Tye unveils new grain drills

LOCKNEY, TX – TYE announces the fifth generation of its high capacity, grain drills in Series V. Over twenty years of TYE Grain Drill experience has gone into the many design innovations and improvements of Series V along with response to needs and demands of today's modern grain producer.

Available in new sizes from 7 feet thru 30 feet, Series V is new from the ground up:

• A new HD row unit retains TYE seeding precision. A new double opener with double sealed bearings, modular mounting, front seed delivery, narrow-vee seed track, double pressure springs, and new press wheels are the heart of Series V.

• Precision seed metering has been improved with a new 9-cell internal flute seeder.

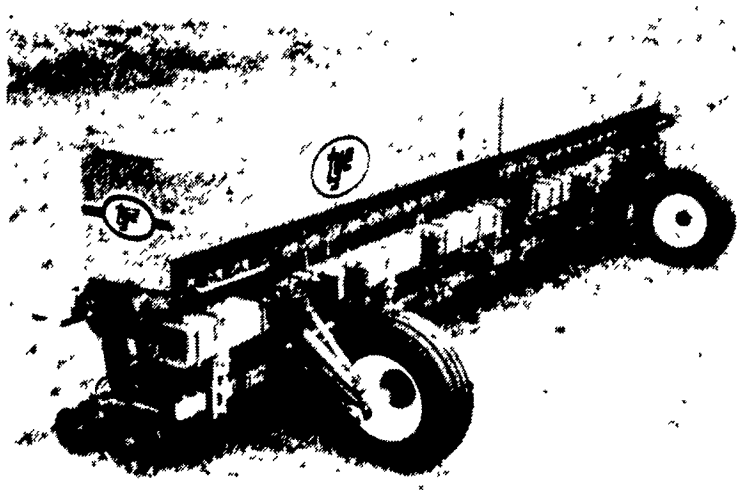
• High flotation gauge wheels are fully adjustable for easy depth control. New HD 2040 chain drives clear the heavy crop residues of no-till.

• A new 7-by-7-inch tubular frame, heaviest in the industry, assures long, dependable performance in larger models and in high acreage, no-till farming.

• TYE's 2.4 Bu/ft seed hopper is 40% larger. A self-cleaning, narrow box bottom along with lock-open lids, metal spill-guard and rainproof seal assure high acreage owners years of trouble free operation.

• Row spacings as narrow as 6 inches match requirements of Intensive Cereal Management, Deep Fertilizer Banding, and Narrow Row Soybeans.

Series V from TYE is fully compatible with TYE's new family of min-till and no-till attachments released in Summer 1985. New Legume and Grass Seed Boxes; New High-flow Fertilizer Boxes; and New Deep Fertilizer Banding options are all available to meet the changing requirements of cost efficiency conscious farmers, worldwide.



Tye announces the Series V Grain Drill, the fifth generation of the Tye high capacity grain drills.

A.I. co-ops form federation

LANCASTER – Three leading U.S. artificial insemination cooperatives--Eastern AI of Ithaca, N.Y.; Atlantic Breeders of Lancaster, Pa.; and Louisiana Animal Breeders of Baton Rouge, La.–have joined forces to provide their cattle-farmer members a wider selection of AI proven sires. The potential of even greater genetic improvement and operational efficiencies in years to come are also envisioned.

Establishment of this Federation was unanimously approved earlier this summer by each of the Boards' of Directors of the three cooperatives. The move came after some two years of study and analyses of various alternatives by representatives of each cooperative. Plans are to have it fully operational in January 1986.

Under the Federation structure each member organization will:

• Continue to operate under its own name in its established member area but have an expanded AI proven sire offering with sires available from all three groups.

• Maintain its capitalization, member equity, and member representation programs.

• Continue its established Holstein sire selection, sampling, and AI development program. However, opportunities for joint development of colored breed sires purchased by each of the co-ops is under study.

• Join in one national-international marketing system to handle sales outside of member areas through a jointly held partnership organization.

• Cooperate in coordinating numerous supporting services for greater operational efficency.

The new working relationship allows members of each cooperative to share results of sire sampling programs which together account for 170 young bulls newly proven each year, in all five major dairy breeds. Breeding unit sales for the Federation are approximately 2.5 million, making it one of the larger American Cooperative semen sales organizations.

Eastern, Atlantic, and Louisiana have chosen sires from each AI proven sire lineup to feature in their respective Fall '85 sire directories, and these sires will be readily available to members.

In addition, the Federation has agreed to share the balance of their AI proven sires on a "special order" basis. Future plans call for semen from all AI proven sires to be shared in proportion to business volume. Currently, Eastern accounts for breeding unit sales of some 1.6 million, Atlantic for about 800,000 units, and Louisiana for some 120,000 breeding units.

Representatives of the new Federation strongly emphasized that each cooperative will continue to maintain its own major member programs and member service areas. Professional technician service, separate and complementary sire development programs, member activities, and separate financial operations will be administered much as they have in the past.

However, the organization will work more closely in marketing AI proven sires, and a combined sire lineup is anticipated following the January 1986 sire proofs. At that time, the Federation will use one stud code--number "8"--to represent sires from all three organizations. Code "8" is currently used exclusively by the Louisiana organization.

Guiding the establishment and future administration of the new organization is a Federation Council consisting of the Presidents, Vice-Presidents, and Managers of the three cooperatives. An Executive Committee is taking responsibility for developing more detailed plans and administering the Federation. The Executive Committee consists of: EAIC General Manager Jim Mellinger as Federation Council Chairman, ABC General Manager Harry Roth, Vice-Chairman, and LABC General Manager Arnold Baham, Secretary.

One of the first responsibilities for the Executive Committee will be hiring a marketing director who will oversee a new combined Domestic/International "partnership," with headquarters in Lancaster. This new "outside member area" division will continue to develop markets outside the traditional Eastern, Atlantic, and Louisiana member areas in the U.S., and in Latin America. Federation semen will continue to be marketed through World Wide Sires in Europe, Asia, and Africa.

Eastern, Atlantic, and Louisiana will continue to operate under their own names and logos, in conjunction with a new, to be established, Federation identity. The "outside area" partnership will take the new name solely, operating as a new identity in domestic and international sales.

The formation of the Federation was augmented by the announcement of a new marketing exchange program with 21st Century Genetics of Shawano, WI. Selected 21st Century sires will be featured in Fall '85 sire directories of the Federation members and the balance of the 21st Century lineup is available on a "special order" basis. Likewise, 21st Century is distributing Federation semen in its service areas.

Eastern AI Cooperative is a 23,000 member dairy farmers' cooperative based in Ithaca, N.Y. Its member area includes New York, New England, the Pennsylvania counties bordering southern New York, except Erie and Warren Counties, and Sussex County, N.J.

Atlantic Breeders' Cooperative is a 13,000 member dairy farmers' cooperative based in Lancaster, Pa. Atlantic's member area includes Pennsylvania (except most counties bordering New York), central and southern New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, northeast Ohio, and parts of West Virginia.

Louisiana Breeders' Cooperative is a farmers' cooperative that is closely associated with Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, La. Its member area includes Louisiana, Mississippi, west Tennessee, southern Arkansas, east Texas, Kentucky, and western Alabama.

Iowa farmer uses plastic tube for storage of round hay bales

OLIN, IA – Large round bales shed rain better than square bales. But scientists agree round bales of legume or thick-stem grass hay will need weather protection in higher rainfall areas. A plastic tube can provide the protection, according to Iowa farmers' experience.

Taking a hint from the silo press plastic bag storage system, Olin, Iowa, farmer Willis Glenn designed a tube former to simplify round bale storage. A tube frame holds the accordion-folded plastic tube to cover 18 large bales. Bales are inserted into the plastic tube through the tube-former frame.

As the loader backs away for the next bale, the loader spike is lowered to catch a hook on the hitch of the skid-mounted tube frame. The frame is then pulled along back for the length of one more bale.

In the process, enough more plastic is pulled off the tube former to hold the next bale. Bales can be shoved into the plastic tube as fast as the loader can swing around to bring the next bale, all without hand labor.

Users who want to upgrade non-legume hay with anhydrous ammonia tie off both ends of the plastic tube before applying the gas to seal the package. For round bale silage the ends are tied, too.

But for dry hay it's important to leave the ends open for ventilation, according to Glenn. This lets moisture escape that condenses out of the hay. Otherwise, the condensation could re-wet the bale surface and lead to mold inside the plastic tube.

Iowa farmer Willis Glenn's Bale Store system lets cattlemen push round bales into a plastic tube without hand labor. Up to 18 big bales can go into a single "sausage" for weather protection.

21st Century adds Pen. Col bull

SHAWANO, WI – A son of Cal-Clark Board Chairman, acquired from Pen-col Farms, Millville, Pa., is now available from the Sampling Sire program of 21st Century Genetics.

21st Century Genetics is the continuation of Midwest Breeders Cooperative, Shawano and Minnesota Valley Breeders Association, New Prague, MN. The first sire summary following the consolidation showed a climb of PD$10 over January and an average of PD$101.

The newest offering from the full-service cattle breeding cooperative is 21H1013 Pen-Col Snowman.

Combined with his maternal grandsire, Glendell Arlinda Chief, Snowman's Pedigree Index is +781 M, +22 F, +$88, has a Genetic Index of +1026 M, +33 F and +$120.

Snowman's dam is Pen-Col Glendell Snoflak, VG-86. As a two-year-old, she had 23,950 pounds of milk, 948 pounds of butterfat and a 4.0 percent fat test in 305 days. Her current Cow Index is +980 M, +35 F, +$121.

Snowman is now housed at the 21st Century Genetics junior sire facility in Stewartville, Minn. He is one of about 120 high genetic potential young sires enrolled each year in the cooperative's sampling program.

The 21st Century Genetics sampling program has been recently revised and retains incentives [illegible] users of sire semen. The revised program will help to increase accuracy and allow 21st Century Genetics to efficiently sample large numbers.

Snowman and the other young sires will have to wait over four years from sampling before their first Predicted Differences (PD's) are calculated. Only about one of six bulls sampled has credentials high enough to meet 21st Century Genetics' standards for its active dairy line-up housed in Shawano and New Prague.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Planning your estate

With all of the financial problems facing farm families, we seem to have put sound estate planning on the back burner. Yet it is still an important part of good financial management.

Every year I hear stories of disasters and family arguments caused by poor, inadequate, or idealized estate plans. These plans are those where people leave it to state laws to determine how property is to be inherited.

They are also those plans, sometimes perpetrated by well meaning but uninformed estate planners, who have little knowledge of the realities of farm values in relation to farm income generating ability, that leave everything equally to all heirs, including those operating the farm.

In a sense those who stayed on the farm may wind up paying for the farm twice–once while helping build up or maintaining the farm and a second time when they try to buy the farm from the other heirs.

Farm family members and estate planners working with farmers should develop a plan taking into consideration that most farms today have a market value well above their working value.

Thus any plan that requires one family member to buy from the other heirs at market may actually mean that the farm will be sold outside of the family.

No land in central Pennsylvania has a productive value for the major farm enterprises of more than $1200 an acre. Most land in this part of the state has a use value well below that amount. Buildings under 10 years old are almost never worth more than 60% of cost with most of them being well below that.

Buildings from 10 to 15 years of age may be worth book value (undepreciated value). Those over 15 are difficult to determine because it will depend on structural soundness and efficiency to use. This means that most farms probably have a market value that is 20 to 100% more than use value. In the south central and south eastern part of the state the difference would be even greater.

The first thing a family doing an estate plan should do is make some decisions.

What do you want to happen to the farm. If you do not care then your plan can have a little more flexibility. If you want it to stay as a farm in the family, this decision must take into account the debt repayment ability of the farm.

If you have heirs who are not involved with the farm operation, should they receive an inheritance? If so, how are you going to handle it without jeopardizing the farm? If not, do they know it?

Do you intend to fund part of your plan with insurance? If so, what do you want to have done with it (use to buy the farm, use it to fund a trust, use it to offset part or all of the farm market value? If not what will you do as an alternative (perhaps nothing is necessary).

If you have minor children, who will be their guardian (financial and personal)?

Do you want an item to go to a particular heir?

Do you have more than one family. In this day and age more and more people are having more than one spouse through their lifetime either due to death or divorce.

If you have a child who has been an asset on the farm for a number of years and you want that child to have the farm or at least the major share of the money if the farm is sold, you should insist on that as a provision in your will.

You do not have to leave everything to your heirs equally. I usually suggest that if you do plan to give one or more children a monetary advantage, you should inform the other children of your intentions.

Explain that your intention is to preserve the farm as a farm in the family. I have found that family members are usually very sympathetic to this feeling.

To offset some reservations the others may have, you could make some provisions that if the farm was sold within a certain period of time after the heir received it, the other heirs would get a percentage of the sale price. This may result in extra income taxes for them but taxes are never 100% of income–it only appears to be 100%.

Sometimes the parents will set part or all of the value up on an installment sale, whereby the person receiving the property pays a certain amount plus interest each year for a certain number of years. This could be workable if there is enough income to make the payments and the new owner can make improvements on the property.

Insurance can be used to act as either a fund the new owner can make improvements on the property.

Insurance can be used to act as either a fund the new owner can use to pay for the property or as a way to will something to the heirs that do not receive the farm. Farm families have to be careful that they do not commit themselves to a premium payment that will stress the farm finances. Many insurance people are aware of the liquidity problem faced by farmers, especially today.

Aer Way™

THE BETTER WAY
TO REVITALIZE THE SOIL AND INCREASE YIELD

The AER-WAY is an utility implement that relieves compaction, aerates, cultivates and renovates. It can function as a rotary hoe, a disc, a roller and a harrow. It saves fuel, time and fertilizer. It increases water percolation, bacterial life and root growth. it is an implement for pastureland, grassland, horse paddocks, general field crops, vegetable production, orchards, vineyards and turfgrass. The AER-WAY will increase your profits through lower costs and higher yields.

HAROLD GETMAN, Lafargeville N Y
"We farm some pretty heavy clay soils here on our farm and we wanted to plant corn after taking winter wheat as silage this spring If it hadn't been for the Aer way we'd have had a very difficult time getting our 1977 A C no till planter to place the seed correctly Using the Aer way we were able to put on the nitrogen from 5000 gallons of liquid manure after the corn was planted It's a beautiful even stand more than we can say for our minumum tilled corn ground this year "

Pasture Nutrient Movement -

Clay and humus are responsible for holding available plant food nutrients

Weathering and secondary tillage concentrate clay particles near the surface of a field Most humus is produced near the surface of a soil

Since commercial fertilizers and animal wastes are surface applied they tend to concentrate in the top 2 inches of soil

As the surface of pastureland becomes compacted it is increasingly impossible for plants to gain access to nutrients

Compaction - Cattle and Machinery

Roots can only penetrate so much concrete It seems obvious enough that that s very little since most of our roads and buildings are not being overgrown with grass trees and other plants

Compacting is always a problem since it is rarely possible to pasture cattle or limit machinery activity to times when the soils are dry enough to resist compacting forces The tendency of a soil to become more severely compacted grows every month as water movement slows and the surface remains wetter longer

The use of legumes could do much to enhance dry weatherr pasture production However legume mortality has made it a dismal prospect Mortality in the study shown below was directly related to the location of wheel traffic and when that traffic occurred in the life of the plants Removal of compaction at the close of the second growing season was too late to stop mortality of alfalfa plants in wheeltracks

Case urges care in wheel servicing

RACINE, WI — It is important for farmers and maintenance/service personnel to exercise caution when servicing tires on agricultural machinery.

"Large tire assemblies can explode with considerable force," says Bill Simpson, J I Case Product Information Manager. "We strongly suggest all workers follow the standards set by the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

Since 1970 hundreds of wheel servicing accidents have been documented by OSHA and the insurance industry. A significant number of these accidents have occurred on farms. For example:

• An Iowa farmer suffered a fractured skull when a wheel exploded while he was inflating a tire on a wagon carrying 200 bushels of corn.

• An Indiana farmer suffered broken ribs and a punctured lung when the mismatched tire he had overinflated hurled him against the ceiling of his barn.

• An overinflated grain drill tire resulted in a broken hand and hearing loss for a Canadian farmer.

• A 16-year-old farmer's helper was killed when he overinflated a tire he had damaged by mounting it over the wrong side of the rim.

Such accidents involved both single-piece and multi-piece rim wheels. Single piece rim wheels are used on most farm machinery. Multi-piece rim wheels are often used on trailer trucks, pickup trucks and campers.

Multi-piece wheels are the more dangerous. Unless the assembly fits together perfectly, it can blow apart very forcefully. Last year OSHA emphasized the explosive danger of single-piece wheels, by adding them to its multi-piece wheel servicing standard.

OSHA reports that the standard has dramatically decreased the number of wheel rim injuries in workplaces where federal regulations apply.

"OSHA isn't permitted to inspect agricultural operations employing under 10 people," explained Richard Sauger, the OSHA Safety and Occupational Manager who wrote the standards. "We know that the accidents happen, but we don't know how many, because a lot of them are never reported."

"It's the small operations that are most likely to have the accidents," Simpson said. "Small farms often can't afford a trained tire maintenance man or a contract with a tire service company. A family farmer with only a few machines frequently maintains them himself. In many cases, teenage [illegible] the dangerous task of changing tires.

The most important precautions wheel service workers should follow are:

• When a tire on a multi-piece wheel has been driven at 80 percent or less of its recommended pressure, or when there is obvious or suspected damage to the tire or wheel components, completely deflate the tire by removing the valve core before taking the wheel off the axle.

• There is only one proper side for mounting tires on single piece agricultural rims. Mount the tire on the side of the rim where the valve stem is located.

• Use a cage, rack or other restraining device around a multi-piece wheel when inflating the tire.

• When inflating a tire on a single piece wheel not bolted to the vehicle, use a restraining device, or place a barrier such as a fence, wall or other solid object between yourself and the wheel. Case recommends that the single-piece wheel be deflated, by removing the value core and letting the air out of the tire, before the tire is removed from the axle. The tire should also be mounted on the tractor prior to inflation.

• Use remote control inflation equipment: an air line, with a clip-on chuck and a hose of sufficient length that you can stand to the side at a safe distance in the event the wheel explodes. The equipment should include an in-line valve with a pressure gauge or presettable regulator.

• Never inflate tires beyond the tire manufacturer's recommended pressure.

• Make sure the bead diameter, tire wheel width, and type of tire and wheel are compatible before putting together the wheel assembly. Check the rim manual or ask your tire dealer to be sure.

This is not a complete list of procedures. For complete information, call or write the Philadelphia Regional OSHA Office (215-596-1201) and ask for free copies of: the pamphlet "Servicing Single Piece and Multi-Piece Rim Wheels" (OSHA Publication Number 3086); "Standard for Servicing Single Piece and Multi-Piece Rim Wheels" (Number 29 CFR Part 1910); and 2 charts prepared by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration–"Safety Precautions for Mounting and Demounting Tube-Type Truck/Bus Tires" and "Multi-Piece Rim Wheel Matching Chart."

EPA restricts use of corn insecticides in Delaware

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has recently restricted the use of eight of the most commonly used corn soil insecticides in the Delmarva area. According to University of Delaware extension entomologist Mark Graustein, only certified operators may now apply Counter, Dasanit, Disyston, Dyfonate, Furadan, Mocap, Temik and Thimet. Lorsban is the only granular soil insecticide commonly used in this area that has not been restricted.

Uncertified farmers may apply these products only under the direct supervision of someone who is certified, the specialist says. The EPA recently tightened its interpretation of "direct supervision" to mean that the uncertified applicator must be within sight and sound of the supervisor.

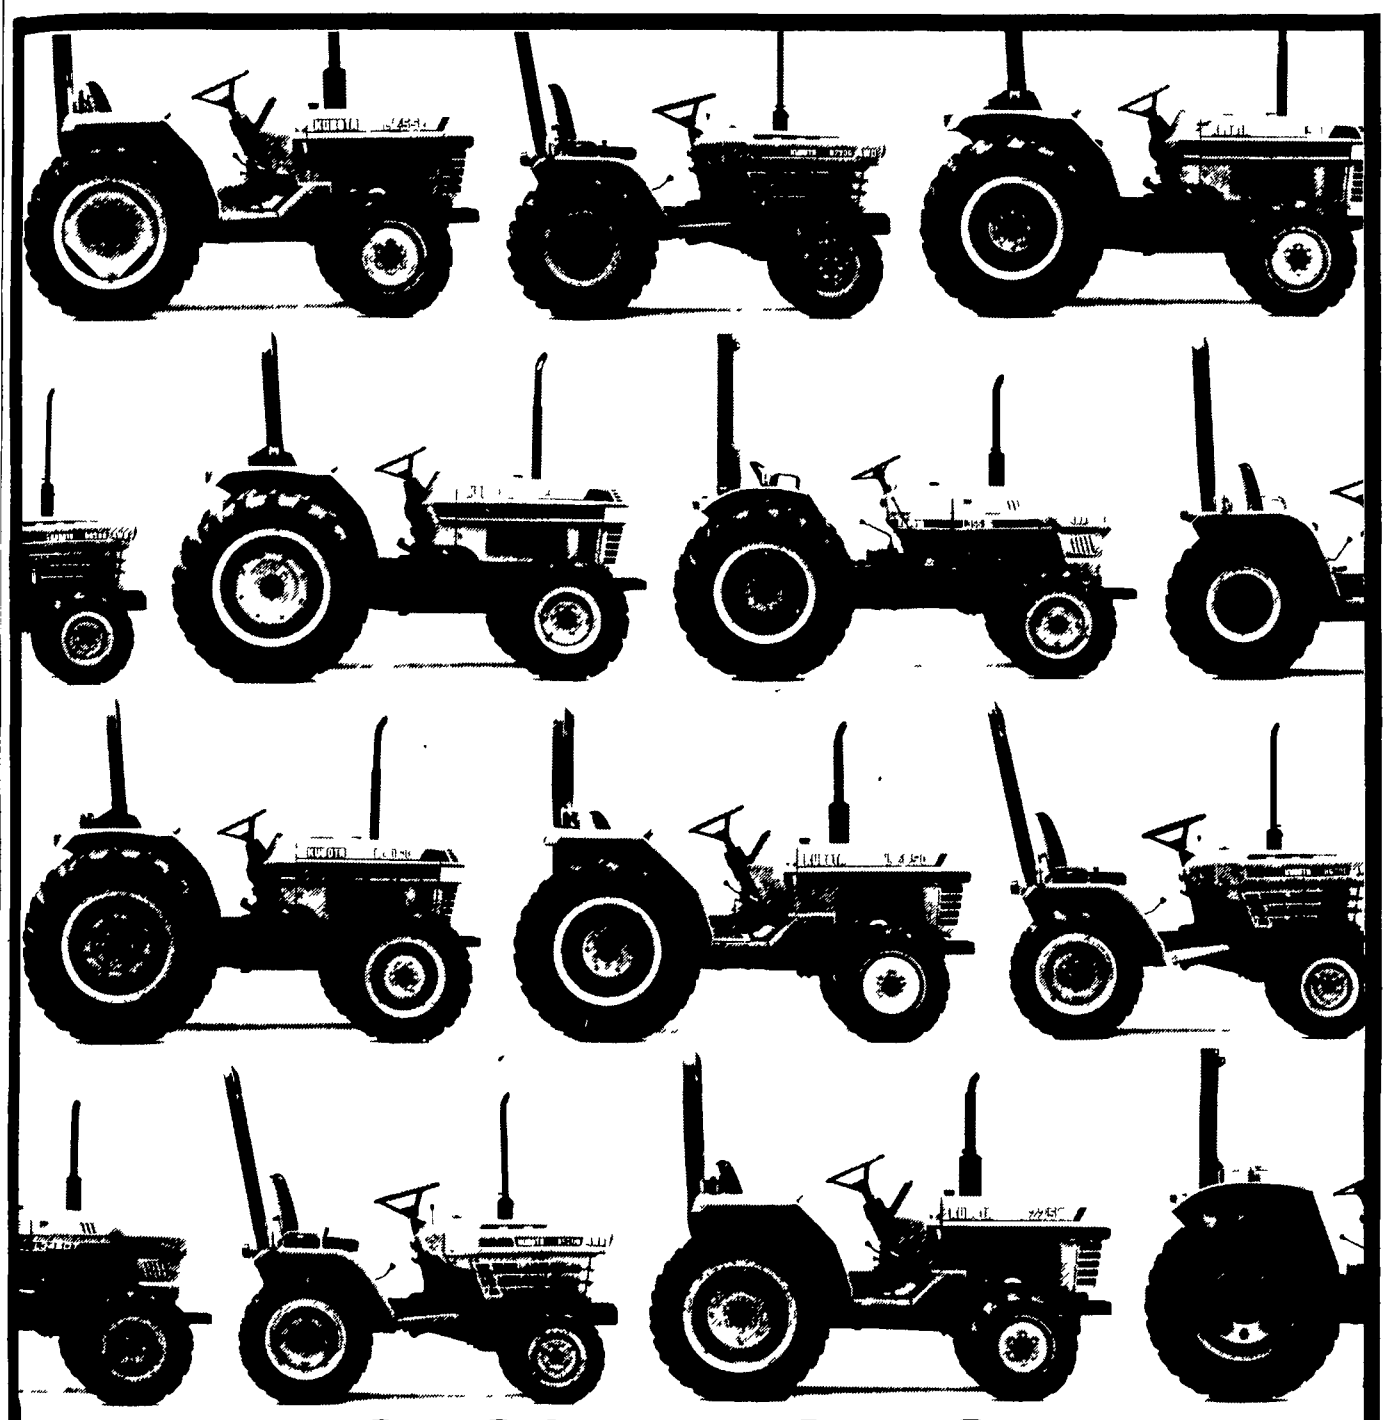
After Sept. 1, 1985 manufacturers must place a restricted use label on all products released for shipment containing any of the eight pesticides. So it is likely that most products available for purchase this winter will bear the new label. "However, farmers who currently have restricted products on hand will not need to be certified to use their existing inventories with the old label," Graustein says. "But to eliminate stockpiling of chemicals for later use, all products sold after Sept. 1, 1986, must be labeled for restricted use."

The reason for the EPA action is that all of these chemicals are toxic to some degree, either to humans or birds. Therefore the EPA feels that only people who have been trained to understand the hazards should use them.

Delaware farmers and other private applicators may become certified by taking a "Core" or general standards pesticide applicator certification test. Tests are given at 7 p.m. on the third Wednesday of each month. Locations are rotated every month by county. "Self-study materials to prepare for the test are available for $6," reports Graustein. "These, as well as information about test schedules and locations, are available from county extension offices in Newark, Dover and Georgetown and from the Delaware Department of Agriculture."

He advises farmers to take the test early because of a possible time lag between passing the test and receiving certification.

"Growers who do not become certified and wish to apply restricted use pesticides have two options," says Graustein. "They may hire a certified operator to apply the chemicals for them, or they may work under the direct supervision of a certified operator."



NOBODY HAS MORE HORSEPOWER UNDER FORTY.

Under forty horses, nobody sells more tractors than we do. One reason is simple. We give you more choices.

There are sixteen compact sizes, each a different model. One of them should fit you perfectly. And once you settle on the horsepower, there are still more choices.

Pick special options like 4-wheel drive, power steering or a hydraulic shuttle transmission. Or choose a Kubota-made implement, the best match for any of our Kubota tractors.

There are, however, a couple of decisions we've made for you.

For example, Kubota's own liquid-cooled diesel engine comes standard in every model. An advanced design, it's built for efficient operation. So a little horsepower works like more.

We've also chosen the color.

New Holland offers new way to use manure spreaders

NEW HOLLAND – Minnesota cattlemen have found a new job for their manure spreaders. They're using them to spread round baled corn stalks for bedding.

The spreader-beater design is critical to good bale processing say the users. Some beater designs just kick the stalks out in chunks. The idea is to spread them without thick chunks that could cause a problem later, says Ray Nooyen of Sperry New Holland.

Experience seems to indicate that the bales can go into the spreader lengthwise, crossways or on end with equal results, according to Nooyen, who is product manager for spreaders at Sperry New Holland. Of course the wrapping twine must be removed as the bales are dumped into the spreader.

"We didn't design our spreaders to process round bales," says Nooyen. "But our customers tell us they work fine where they want to put down a layer of stalks before putting cattle into a feedyard. The tractor in inched ahead as the beaters go on full tilt. It solves the awkward problem of what to do with large round bales of stalks after you get them off the field. Experience shows you can handle it all mechanically with a spreader."

Minnesota cattlemen have discovered they can process large cornstalk round bales for bedding with their manure spreaders.

Pioneer signs pact with Cold Spring lab

DES MOINES, IA – Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. and Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory have announced that they have signed a five-year, $2.5 million agreement to conduct cooperative genetic engineering research in corn and other crop plants. Initial work will focus on the use of recombinant-DNA techniques to improve hybrid corn.

The terms of the agreement call for Pioneer to provide $750,000 toward the construction of a new plant laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor. The remaining $1.75 million will be spread over five years to expand Cold Spring Harbor's basic research and to develop techniques useful to Pioneer plant breeders.

Dr. Nicholas Frey, Director of Biotechnology Research for Pioneer, is enthusiastic about the advances that may result from the cooperative effort. "One exciting research area involves the use of transposable elements (the "jumping genes" first identified by Cold Spring Harbor Nobel Laureate Dr. Barbara McClintock in the 1940's) to locate genes of interest to our plant breeders, such as those that control nutritional quality, disease resistance and climatic tolerance in corn. This could provide tremendous benefits to farmers."

Dr. James Watson, co-winner of the 1962 Nobel Prize for the discovery of the "double helix" structure of DNA and the director of the laboratory complex at Cold Spring Harbor, says the collaborative venture is a great fit between the two research groups.

"This joint program focuses the expertise of two highly-specialized organizations on the problem of making more useful and productive crop plants," he observed.

"We bring knowledge of basic biology and recombinant-DNA techniques, while Pioneer brings vast experience in plant breeding along with a nationwide network for testing and marketing new hybrids and plant varieties. It's a perfect fit and we're excited."

Frey noted that the current agreement is not the first instance of Pioneer drawing upon technology developed at Cold Spring Harbor to enhance corn production by American farmers.

"It was at Cold Spring Harbor in 1908 where geneticist George Shull grew the first hybrid corn and demonstrated the principle of heterosis, or hybrid vigor," Frey said.

"However, it was Henry A. Wallace, the founder of Pioneer and later Secretary of Agriculture and Vice President of the United States, who successfully applied Shull's breeding methods to the commercial production of hybrid seed corn. Through his writings in his family's farm magazine, Wallace then helped sell farmers on the value of hybrid corn."

Pioneer is the world's largest seed research and marketing company with nearly 3,400 employees and extensive research operations in the U.S., Canada and 13 other countries. Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory and its staff of 100 research scientists is internationally recognized for its work in cell biology, plant and animal genetics, cancer research and plant cell culture.

Pioneer will receive options to acquire worldwide licenses to products and technology arising out of the research program. Scientists from Pioneer will be in residence at Cold Spring Harbor throughout the term of the agreement.

"We've been able to increase corn's yield potential by an average of one bushel per acre per year through traditional plant breeding methods," says Frey. "Providing our plant breeders with additional tools developed at Cold Spring Harbor and in our own biotechnology laboratories will help us maintain or increase this rate of improvement in the future."

New forest pest

COLLEGE PARK, MD – Maryland foresters are shifting their attention momentarily from the gypsy moth, which is responsible for destroying nearly 42,000 acres of trees in the state in 1984, to another pest that is wreaking nearly as much havoc with forest land.

More than 86,000 acres of loblolly pine are defoliated on Maryland's Eastern Shore this year thanks to the sawfly, according to Dr. John Kundt of the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service. That figure is an increase of nearly 30,000 acres over last year's damage.

Damage to the trees ranges from moderate–with 30 to 60% of the trees' foliage lost–to heavy–where 60 to 80% of foliage is devoured by sawfly larvae.

Like the gypsy moth, sawfly is not damaging to trees in its adult form. Says Extension forester Kundt, it is when the sawfly emerges from egg masses in its larval form that it feeds on loblolly pine needles.

Fortunately, however, the similarities between gypsy moth and sawfly end there. For most trees that suffer heavy damage from gypsy moth, it is nearly impossible to fully recover. Not so with sawfly damage, explains Kundt

"Loblolly pines are usually able to reduce the needles lost to sawfly larvae, except in those cases where defoliation combines with drought to severely weaken a tree. Then a tree will probably die," he says.

Figures from Maryland's Department of Agriculture (MDA) show that Dorchester County is hardest hit this year with a total of just over 55,000 acres showing sawfly damage--an increase over last year of more than 22,000 acres. Talbot County also shows a huge increase in defoliation over last year–6600 acres in 1985 compared to just 155 in 1984.

Forest entomologists with MDA blame this year's warm spring for the increase in defoliation. Kundt notes that warm weather seems to increase the number of successful hatchings from sawfly eggs.

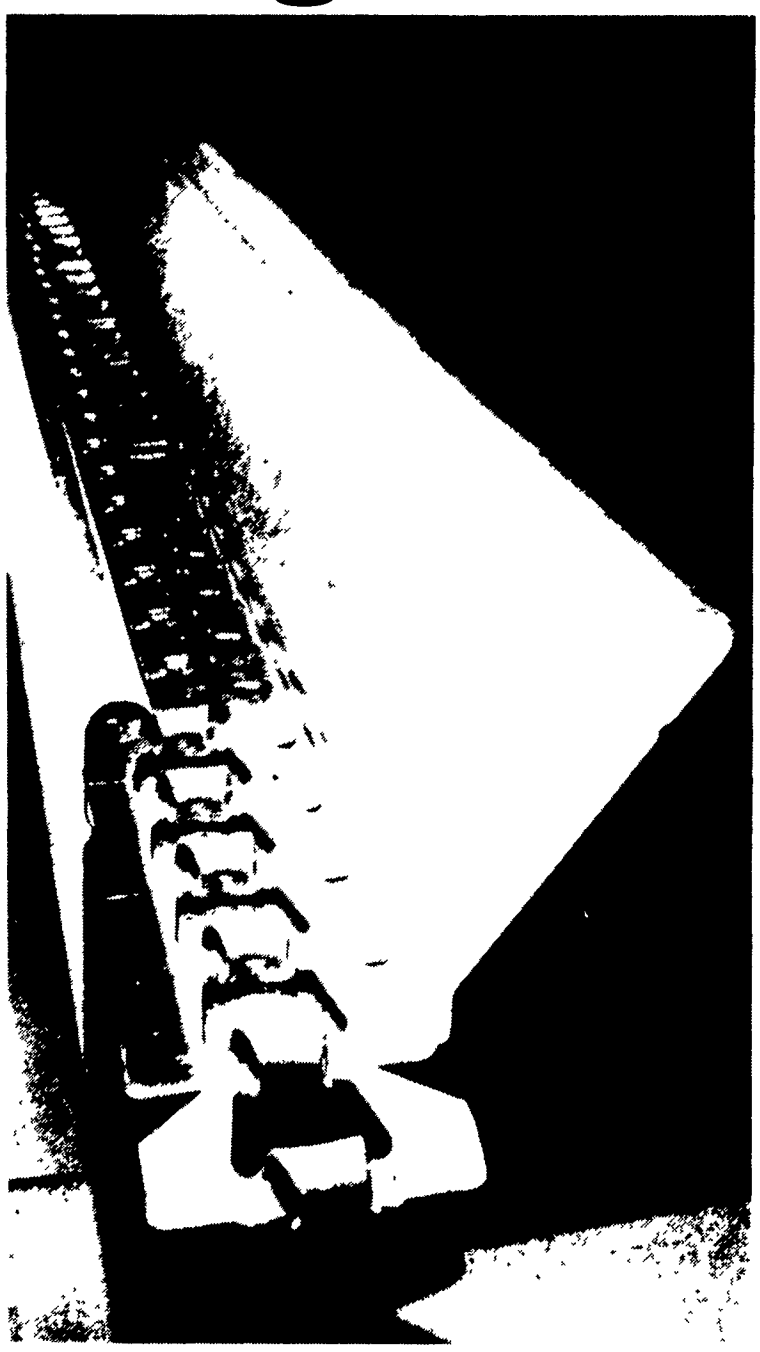
A Cage isn't enough



It takes more than wire to make a cage system More than anything else it takes a feeder

Sure, other components are important, but mainly it's the feeder that makes the system That's why Big Dutchman's Systems are equipped with a SPEED FEED chain feeder that feeds every bird the right amount at the right time, without waste

When you compare poultry equipment remember that the real test of a cage system is its feeder Big Dutchman is ready for the test.

Defatted products

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Department of Agriculture is seeking public comments on labeling and other requirements for partially defatted products made from fatty meat tissue, a USDA official announced.

Partially defatted products are made by cooking trimmings of fatty tissue containing some meat at 120 degrees F or lower.

"The growing use of products such as 'partially defatted beef fatty tissue' and 'partially defatted chopped pork' has caused us to take a closer look at current federal policy and regulations for these products," said L.L. Gast, associate administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service. "We question whether current requirements can assure industry compliance, expected nutritional value, accurate labeling, and prevent growth of harmful food poisoning organisms."

Gast said before USDA proposes changes in regulations and policy governing partially defatted products, public comments are being solicited to help determine an approach that meets the requirements of both industry and consumers.

Under current USDA policy, partially defatted products containing 12 or more percent lean meat are considered meat products; under USDA regulations, partially defatted products containing less than 12 percent lean meat are defined as a meat byproduct. USDA prescribes different maximum percentage amounts for each that can constitute portions of food items such as frankfurters and commerically marketed chili. Allowable percentage amounts of meat products and byproducts also vary from food item to food item.

Gast said some meat processors have stated that ingredient names for partially defatted products are burdensome and have requested relief from these requirements.

Gast said the Food Safety and Inspection Service has considered several options to formulate clearer and more consistent regulations governing the use of partially defatted products, including: a new, single definition for the products; a descriptive name; limits or ranges of protein content and quality; limits or ranges of fat content; higher cooking temperatures for fatty meat tissue trimmings.

PURINA PRECONDITIONING/RECEIVING CHOW

Getting cattle started right is just as important as selling them when they're ready. Death losses or chronically sick cattle can take a lot of profit out of feeding cattle. That's why we recommend buying sound cattle, giving them appropriate vaccinations and health treatments and feeding them a ration specifically designed for starting cattle. Preconditioning/Receiving Chow® brand ration is one part of an overall Purina starting program. It's a disease fighting, gain building feed you can count on. The high palatability, nutrition and medication in Preconditioning/Receiving Chow helps overcome the stresses of shipping, disease exposure, and new surroundings.

Upon feedlot arrival, place your shipped-in calves on Preconditioning/Receiving Chow and a sound management program for 21-28 days. And gain all these advantages:

Highly palatable pelleted feed lures calves to the bunk. Calves don't take one or two weeks to get on full feed as they would other less-palatable feeds. Helps calves quickly adapt to their new surroundings. Reduces handling.

CALVES CARRY 50 to 80 LB. WEIGHT ADVANTAGE TO MARKET.
Balanced nutrition helps calves quickly retain weight losses from shipping. Proper energy/roughage ratio maintains normal rumen function for healthy digestion. Builds quickly early gains — up to 50 to 80 extra lbs. Shortens their finishing time. In recent field tests, Iowa and Nebraska calves gained an average of 2.6 lbs./day with Preconditioning/Receiving Chow. Other major tests show average gains of 2.5 to 3.0 lbs./hd./day.

YOU WORRY LESS ABOUT STRESS, DISEASE AND DEATH.
Properly medicated ration fights low-level infections in newly arrived calves. Reduces health problems common after long hours of shipping. Can cut the number of calves you treat to only 3.5-4.0%, not up to 25-30% as non-preconditioned calves. And that saves you medication and veterinary costs. Also proven to cut down death loss to only 0.16% - not up to 2-3% as non-preconditioned calves, according to research.*

HOW TO FEED:
Give cattle free-choice access to good, clean grass hay the first day only; then feed Preconditioning/Receiving Chow free-choice for 21 to 28 days. For best results, feed cattle in small confined pen with water available. WARNING: Observe withdrawal period.

* Based on research conducted at Iowa State University and 'calf evaluation reports" through the University of Minnesota Beef Extension Veterinary Dept

One of Purina's most successful "Cattle Country" feeds. Now Available in your area, for your profits!

* Successful Results are seen with heavier shipped in animals
* Medicated with AS-700
